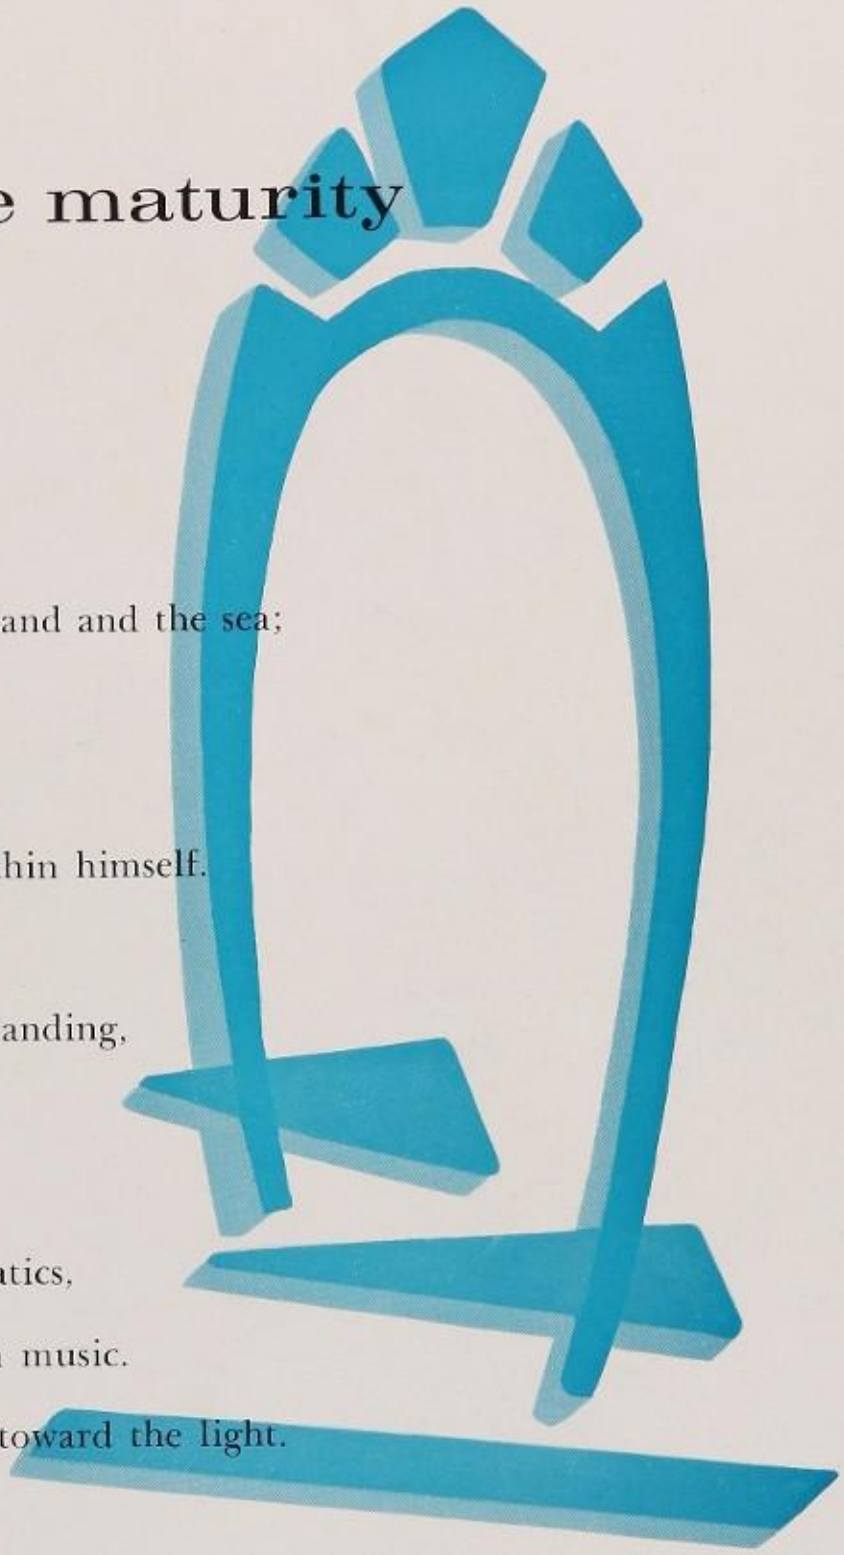
WESTERN HILLS ANNUAL

Western Hills High School

Cincinnati, Ohio

The challenge of creation is eternally man's. Once it was conquest — we fought and subdued a harsh opponent; now it is appreciation — we must take nature and see her beauty and unique expression of God.

endeavor toward true maturity



Man has always had a challenge. Once it was the land and the sea;
now it is space, the universe beyond the earth.
Man, however, has a greater challenge still to be met on earth, a challenge within himself.
Man must gain true humanity,
must put forth effort to gain knowledge, understanding, appreciation, love. All men face this challenge — some aware of it, some not.
We as students face it in French and in mathematics,
in gymnastics and in hockey, in dramatics and in music.
We, too, strive in the dark, but we strive always toward the light.

With six years at Western Hills as a friendly backdrop, seniors laugh together with complete, relaxed confidence.

challenges us to develop our minds

The Challenge to the mind

"The chief dignity of man is Thought." These words of Pascal highlight the challenge to the mind. It is a challenge of ceaseless work, and it is a challenge which often remains unrealized.

High school years are, however, the time of first perception, when the student begins to search into art, mathematics, or the social sciences. They are the years when a person first senses his mind and its abilities and sees the awesome challenge to the mind.

New courses, new books, new teachers, new ideas — a burst of enthusiasm is the keynote of early autumn. After classes students stop to relax and talk.

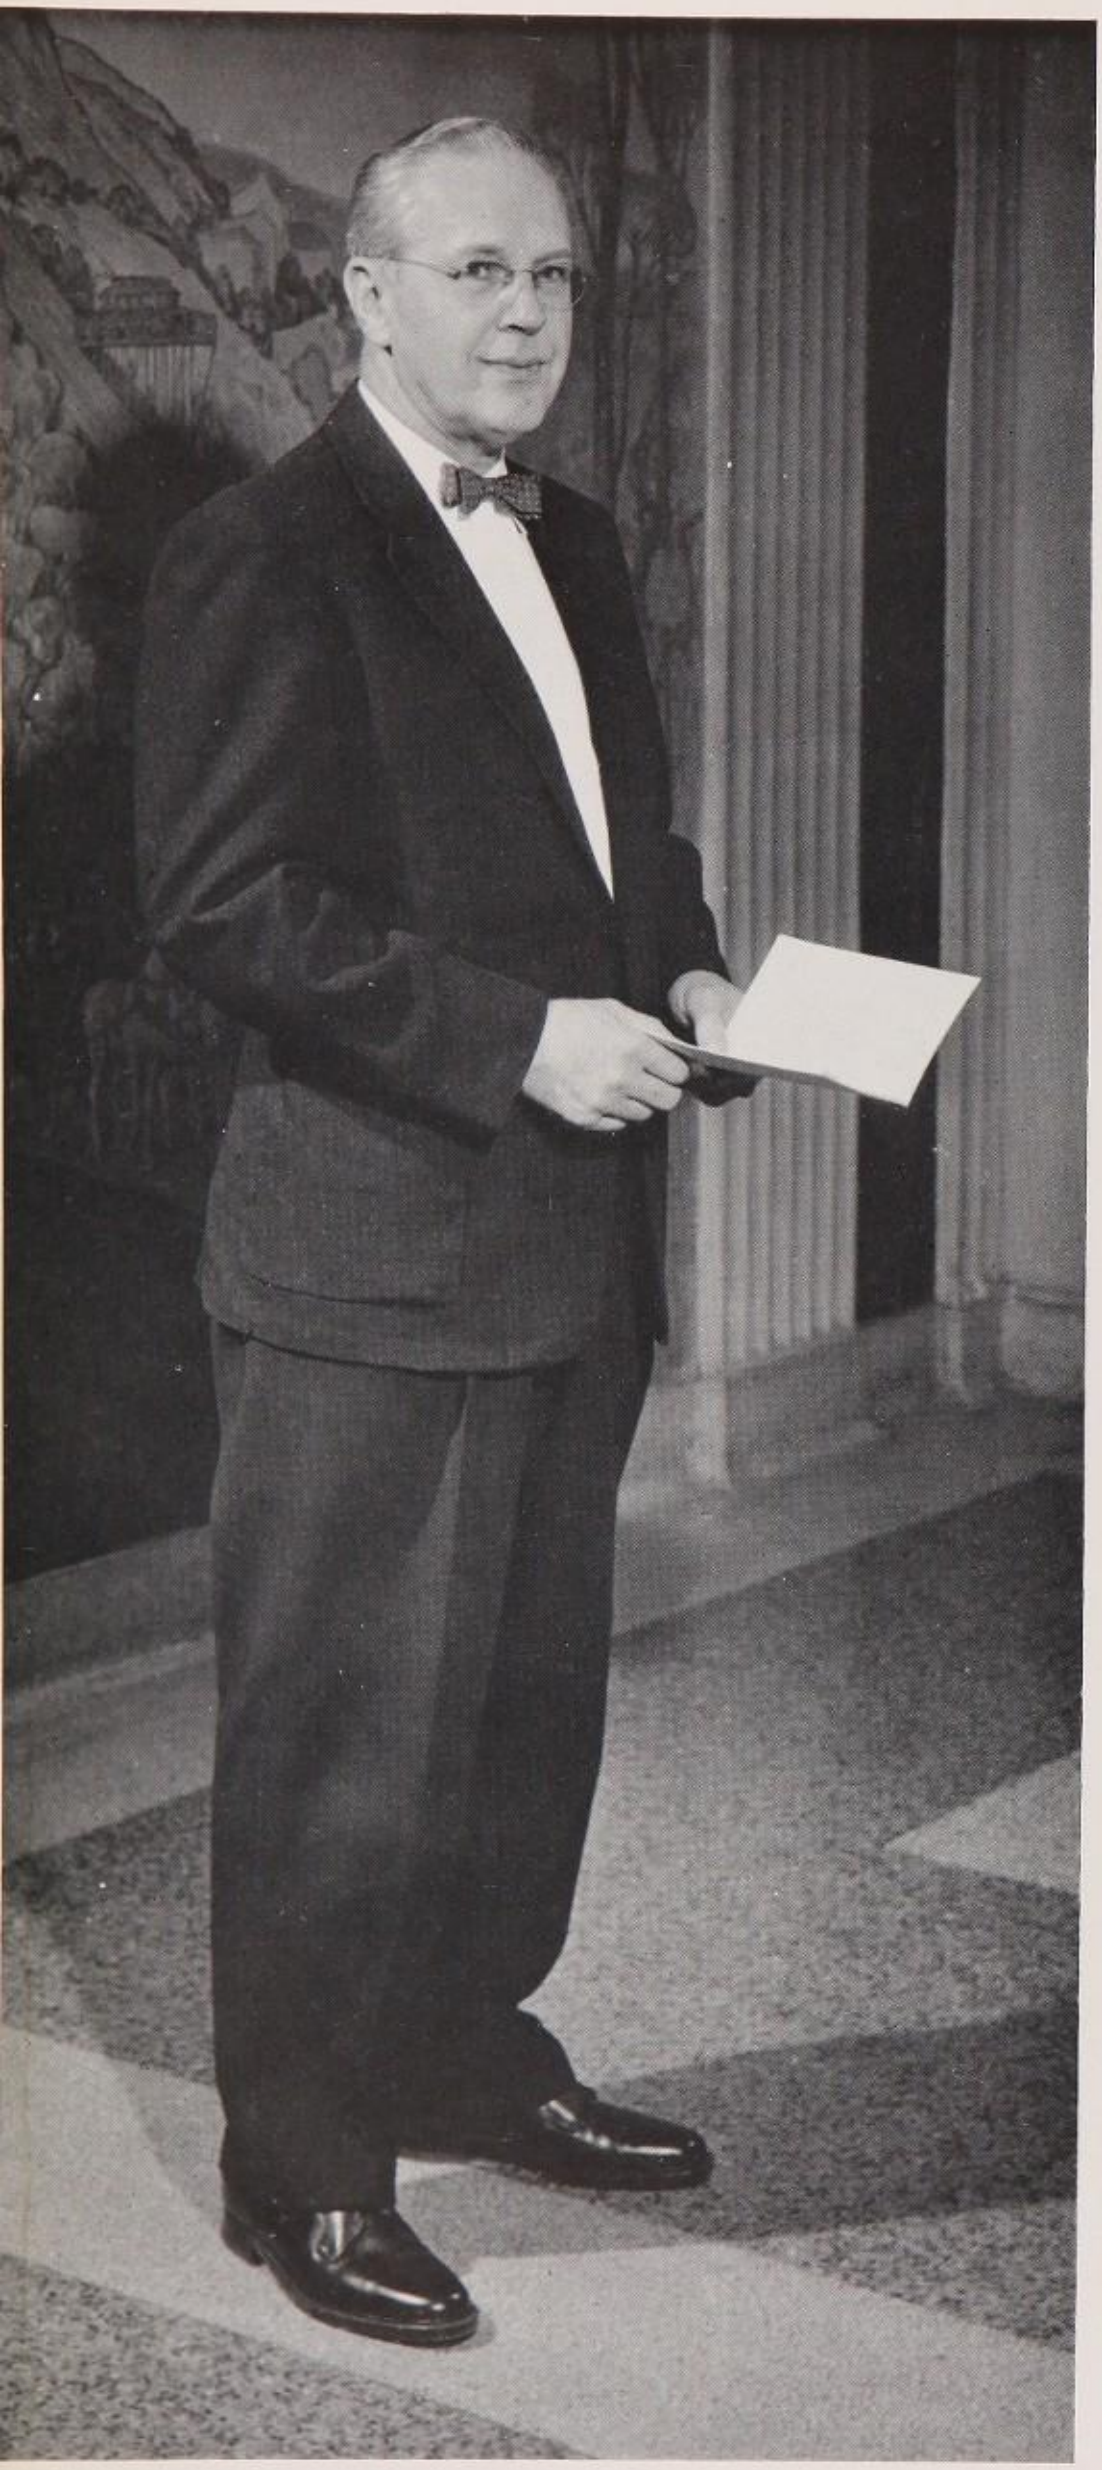
The clean lines of Cincinnati's Museum of Natural History and the medieval structures of the Eden Park Tower form a contrast symbolic of the challenge to the mind. The buildings, representatives of two widely separated cultural periods, vividly illustrate the continual assimilation of knowledge from the past. They stand as two members in a line of continuous change; they stand as challenges for us to utilize the knowledge we have to construct a better world.

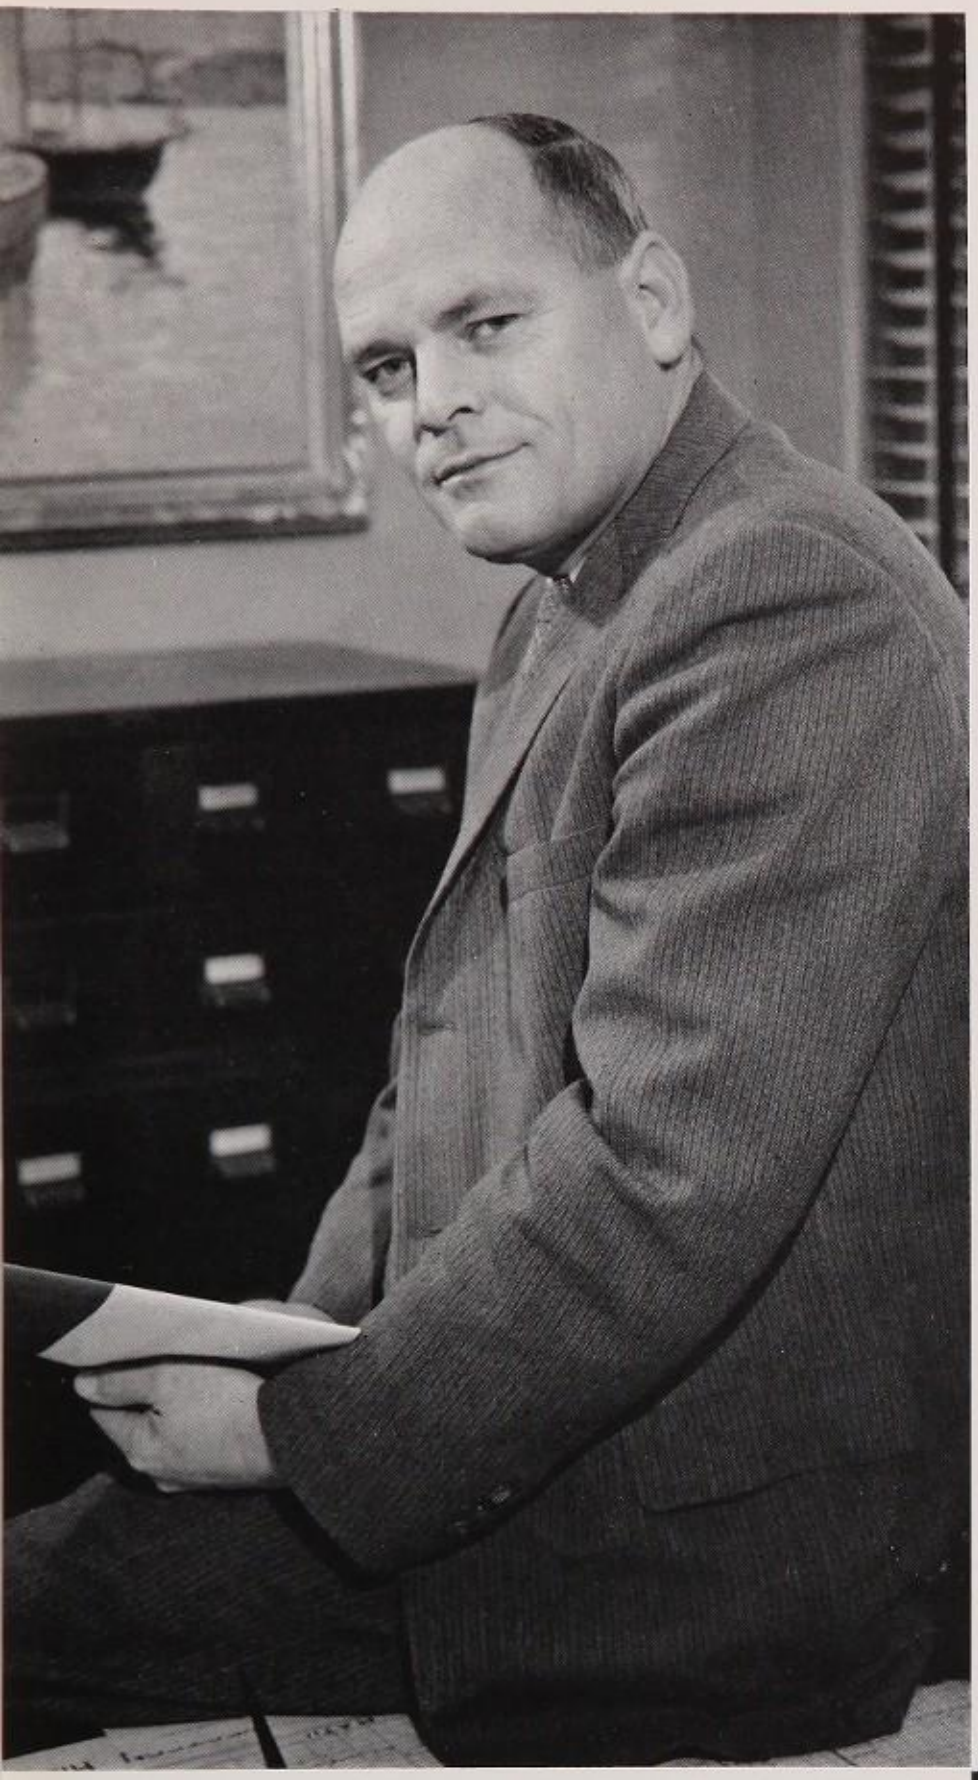


Mr. Arthur Havlovic
Principal

Our genial principal challenges us to mature

The first test of a leader is that he can wisely guide and counsel his followers to meet life with conviction and the will to carry on. One man with this ability is the principal of Western Hills, Mr. Arthur Havlovic. Not only does he handle the administrative duties efficiently and promote understanding among faculty, students, and parents, but he also inspires everyone around him to attack his duties with great enthusiasm. A leader such as Mr. Havlovic meets matters ranging from classroom problems to extracurricular activities with strength and daring. Undaunted by conferences, meetings, reports, and endless school problems, he faces daily affairs cheerfully and wisely.

Challenged again, Mr. Havlovic? You can't escape decisions even in chess.



Mr. Richard Hobson
Assistant Principal
Senior High

Many detailed tasks keep Mr. Hobson busy

Mr. Hobson, our versatile assistant principal, meets the problems and demands of a large student body with the ease and assurance of an expert. He takes care of many behind-the-scene duties with interest and enthusiasm. Mr. Hobson handles the book store, lockers, class rings, textbooks, and student discipline in a firm, but understanding manner. Throughout the year, he sometimes assists Mr. Havlovic in the selection of interesting programs for the student assemblies. Because of these many duties and responsibilities, Mr. Hobson rarely finds time, except during the summer vacation, to pursue his hobbies of music, reading, and carpentry.

Mr. William Strunk
Assistant Principal
Junior High

A new, capable leader

This year Western Hills is honored to have as its new assistant principal, Mr. William P. Strunk. An English teacher last year at Woodward High School, Mr. Strunk has had to face the challenges of not only a new job but a new school. His excellent qualities of leadership, a firm command of every situation, and a willingness to help others have enabled him to adjust and to carry out successfully the difficult work of his office.

Mr. Conger and Mrs. Heninger challenge us to mature by helping us to select a college which will best serve our academic needs and abilities.

Advisers provide understanding guidance

The excellent counseling staff at Western Hills has prepared many a young person to face the world squarely whether as a student or as a worker. Besides helping the students individually, Mrs. Heninger and Mr. Conger spend much of their time in the classroom, explaining options and giving guidance in the choice of courses. By using aptitude and preference tests, our counselors also help students select and apply to the college which fits their particular need. After aiding students in their college selections, the counselors still have ahead of them their biggest job — that of averaging grades, and filling out transcripts and recommendations. With wise advice and sympathetic understanding, our counselors assist the students at Western Hills to face their challenges with the confidence of well prepared individuals.

Secretaries Elizabeth Adams and Marian Rothert discuss new reports.

Counseling helps many students find goals

Because the life of a new junior high pupil is full of activities, privileges, and opportunities, problems often arise. The hectic job of giving guidance and assistance falls to our capable counselor, Miss Hanauer. Some of the duties she must perform in a normal day include helping with troublesome schedules, giving tests, and answering questions of students. Miss Hanauer, giving advice as needed, prepares students for the great adjustments which must be made in senior high. Working hand in hand with our counselors are our efficient sercetaries. Each day there is a new bulletin to make up, letters to type, and many other minute duties to be performed. With the help of our secretaries, the counselors keep the offices well organized and running smoothly.

Plane geometry, history, English . . . "Oh what should I take next year?" ponders Linda Scholl as she and Miss Hanauer discuss options.

Work, work, work is the motto of our three smiling office secretaries, Miss Husemann, Miss Bicking, and Miss Lehman.

Teachers help us to develop understanding

The extremely difficult task of instilling in young minds a knowledge of the world and a curiosity about it presents a huge challenge to every teacher. His ingenuity and resourcefulness are called upon at all times of the day to make difficult ideas more understandable. To accomplish this gigantic task, he makes use of the facilities given him — colorfully illustrated textbooks, maps, charts, and films. To stimulate curiosity, he phrases statements and questions so that other questions will arise in students' minds. To encourage pupils to enlarge upon their classroom activities, he explains defines, and adds details to basic textbook content. Again and again he must discover new ways of presenting his material. His resourcefulness encompasses all of a teacher's education. Emulating Plato's statement, those having torches will pass them on to others, a teacher accepts his duty with willingness, courage, and patience.

Our teachers have important responsibilities

Each new school day brings various responsibilities to the teacher. He must spend the day not only instructing his students, but he must in his "spare time," make out report cards, grade sheets, and attendance records; hand out locks; and take care of study halls. A teacher, of course, is willing to aid in the functioning of our school, but many times he wishes that he could devote his full time and energy to the subject he teaches.

And gladly would he learn,

and gladly teach.

Miss Slutz, commenting on Jeri Hall's personality report, points out the four important factors which affect the formation of one's personality.

A job well done is satisfying and rewarding

The joy in watching children learn, the delight in sharing what one knows, the satisfaction of creating a feeling of unity among diverse members of a class — these are the rewards of teaching. Though a teacher confronts many obstacles and burdens, he forgets about these when he sees students progressing under his guidance. He knows that the understanding they gain may give students a more intelligent approach to life and open new horizons for them to pursue. The sparkling eyes, radiant smiles, and eager questions of those who have suddenly grasped a truth stimulate a teacher to do his best. Altruistic by nature, he seeks only to share with others, to give of himself completely, so that his students can experience the same joy in learning which he has known.

Teachers display versatility in their classes

Members of the West High faculty teach a wide variety of subjects in many fields. With an excellent educational background in both a major and a minor field, they have prepared themselves to teach more than one subject. Coaches and physical education teachers also instruct health classes; and teachers of academic subjects often combine fields, such as English and a foreign language or math and science. Besides displaying their versatility, our teachers continually strive to increase their present knowledge by making use of summer vacations for travel and study.

As part of their initiation into West High faculty, new teachers play charades. Although some teachers look puzzled, Mr. Strunk ventures a guess.

New teachers meet the challenge of West Hi

To the new teacher at Western Hills comes the great challenge of a strange school, different people, and new traditions. The challenge is even greater for the untried teacher who has just finished college. Through an initiation picnic in September, the new teacher is made to feel welcome. He becomes an official member of the faculty after he submits to a nonsensical initiation – this year charades. After this informal gathering, the new teacher soon feels at ease with faculty and students in his position at Western Hills.

Teachers enjoy rare moments of leisure

After a busy day at school, West High teachers often enjoy a quiet evening at home with their families or friends. A great many relax to enjoyable hours of reading, television, or family fun and conversation. Others, in after school hours, follow favorite hobbies, ranging from fine arts to invigorating sports. All in all, teachers do not spend all of their time at school; they, as well as other people, have outside interests.

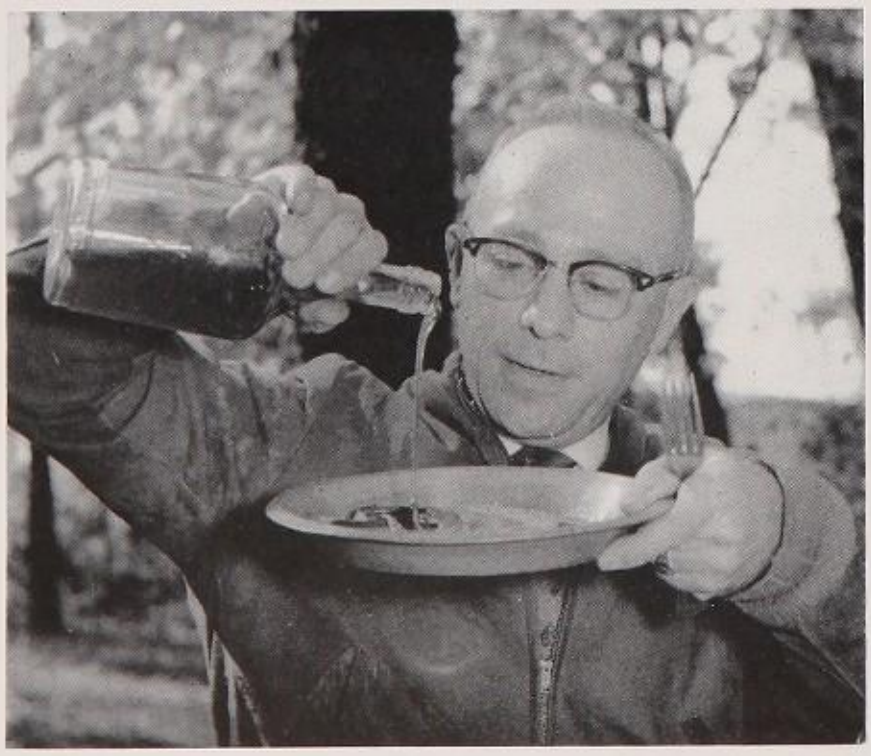
Teachers have fun at a pancake breakfast

One brisk spring morning from the woods behind West High came the fresh aroma of delicious hotcakes, steaming coffee, and sizzling eggs, bacon, and sausages. Mr. Thomas' pancake breakfast was in full swing. A large group of hardy teachers had braved the cool air and rain-soaked ground to enjoy the delicious home-made maple syrup, provided by the biology classes from their annual spring tapping of our maple trees.

A dextrous pancake flipper, Mr. Havlovic astonishes Miss Husemann.



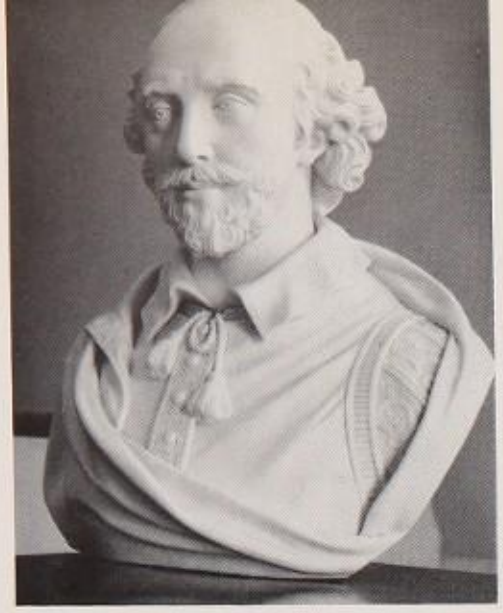
Mm . . . good! The anticipation of home-made maple syrup on feather-light pancakes brings a smile of delighted pleasure to Mr. Kuhn's face.

With his magic touch added to the griddle, Mr. Gausman never fails to transform batter into perfectly delicious corn and buckwheat pancakes.

"You must break the egg first, Mr. Thomas," comments Mrs. Lewis.

"Hot coffee and cocoa coming right up," shouts hot drink chef Nocka.

"That's pancake batter?" Mr. Richard Hobson looks dubious as he learns secrets of the kitchen and the outdoor grill from the assembly line including adviser Miss Ruth Geiger, mixer Mrs. Dorothy Lewis, and measurer Mrs. Frances Myers.



Shakespeare — the great dramatist.

The art of expression

It has been said that the greatest minds are those that are able to express themselves most clearly. By studying Shakespeare, writing research papers, and reading the classics, Western Hills students learn this valuable skill of communication.

Hours of library reference work precede each research paper.

"It will not speak? then will I follow it."

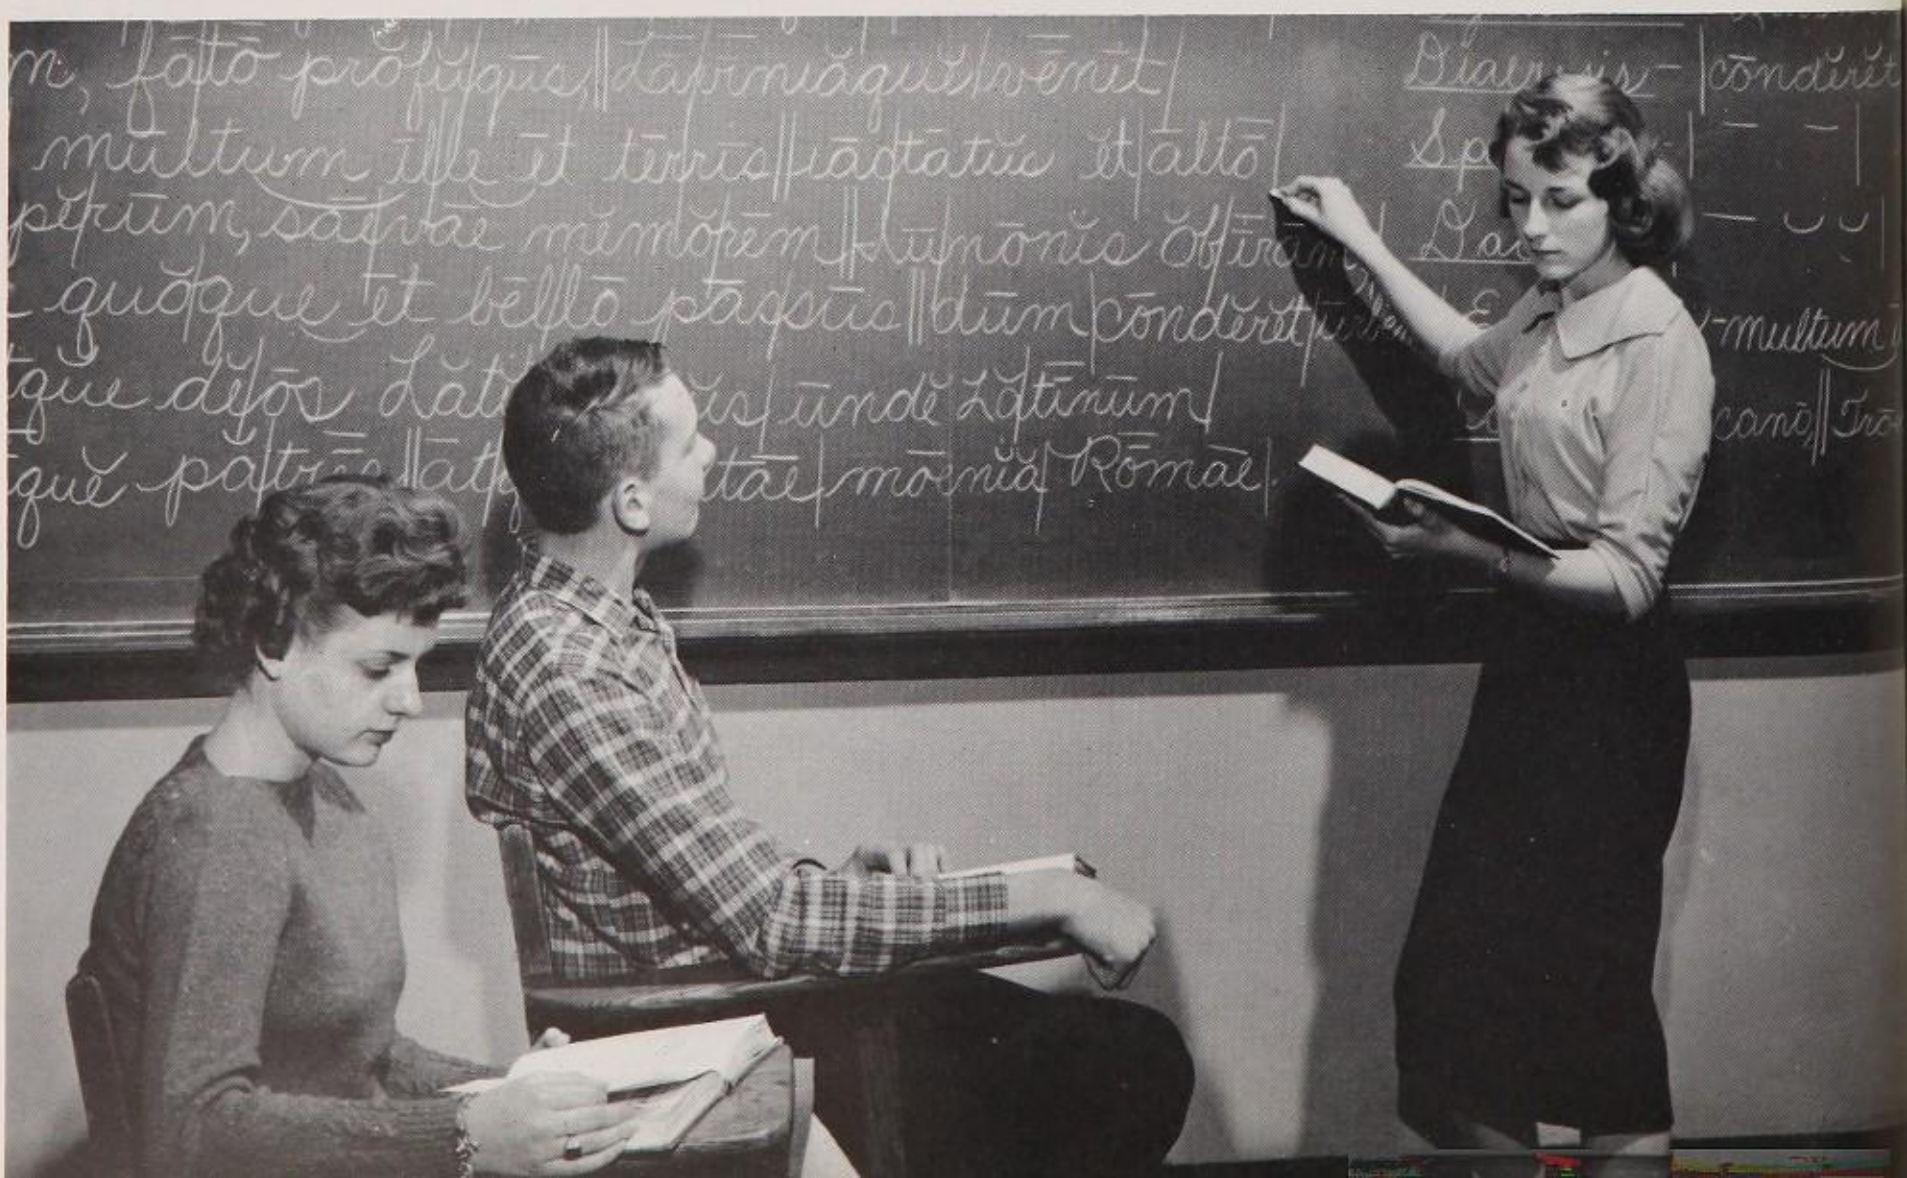
HAMLET Act I Scene IV

Having fun in seventh grade conversational French are Doug Fread and Carole Ramsey, who supplement classroom work with records.

Languages give a glimpse of other cultures

Don Quixote, fighting windmills in Spain; the Count of Monte Cristo, wrecking vengeance upon his enemies; Cicero, denouncing Catiline before the Senate; and Faust, trading his soul to the devil — all these come to life in the language classes at Western Hills every day. Beginning with conversation, conjugation, and declensions, language pupils rapidly move on to read the great literature of Germany, France, Spain, and the Roman Empire. Maps, pictures, field trips, and other activities help them understand the customs and the times which produced the writers and poets whose works they study. Through great pieces of literature students learn the value of other cultures, improve their own speech, broaden their viewpoint, and learn to speak a foreign tongue.

Scanning Virgil's Aeneid is hard for some, but Donna Hartig, Dick Husemann, and Judie Baker discover that doing it together can be quite helpful.



German born Irene Bauknecht shows pictures of the Rhine Valley to admiring onlookers Jerry Brannon and Warren Baas during German class.

With his much-too-small sombrero balanced uncertainly on his head, Phil Bierbaum has trouble leading the animated congo line for Spanish Club.

The world of Don Quixote — a world of Sancho Panza, knights errant, and jousts with windmills — comes alive for Diane Dalbert in Spanish as she translates the famous novel in its original language to the class.

Pursuing an unusual hobby, Ken Smith draws a huge chart showing the relations of royalty in Europe, from the Bourbons to the Hohenzollerns.

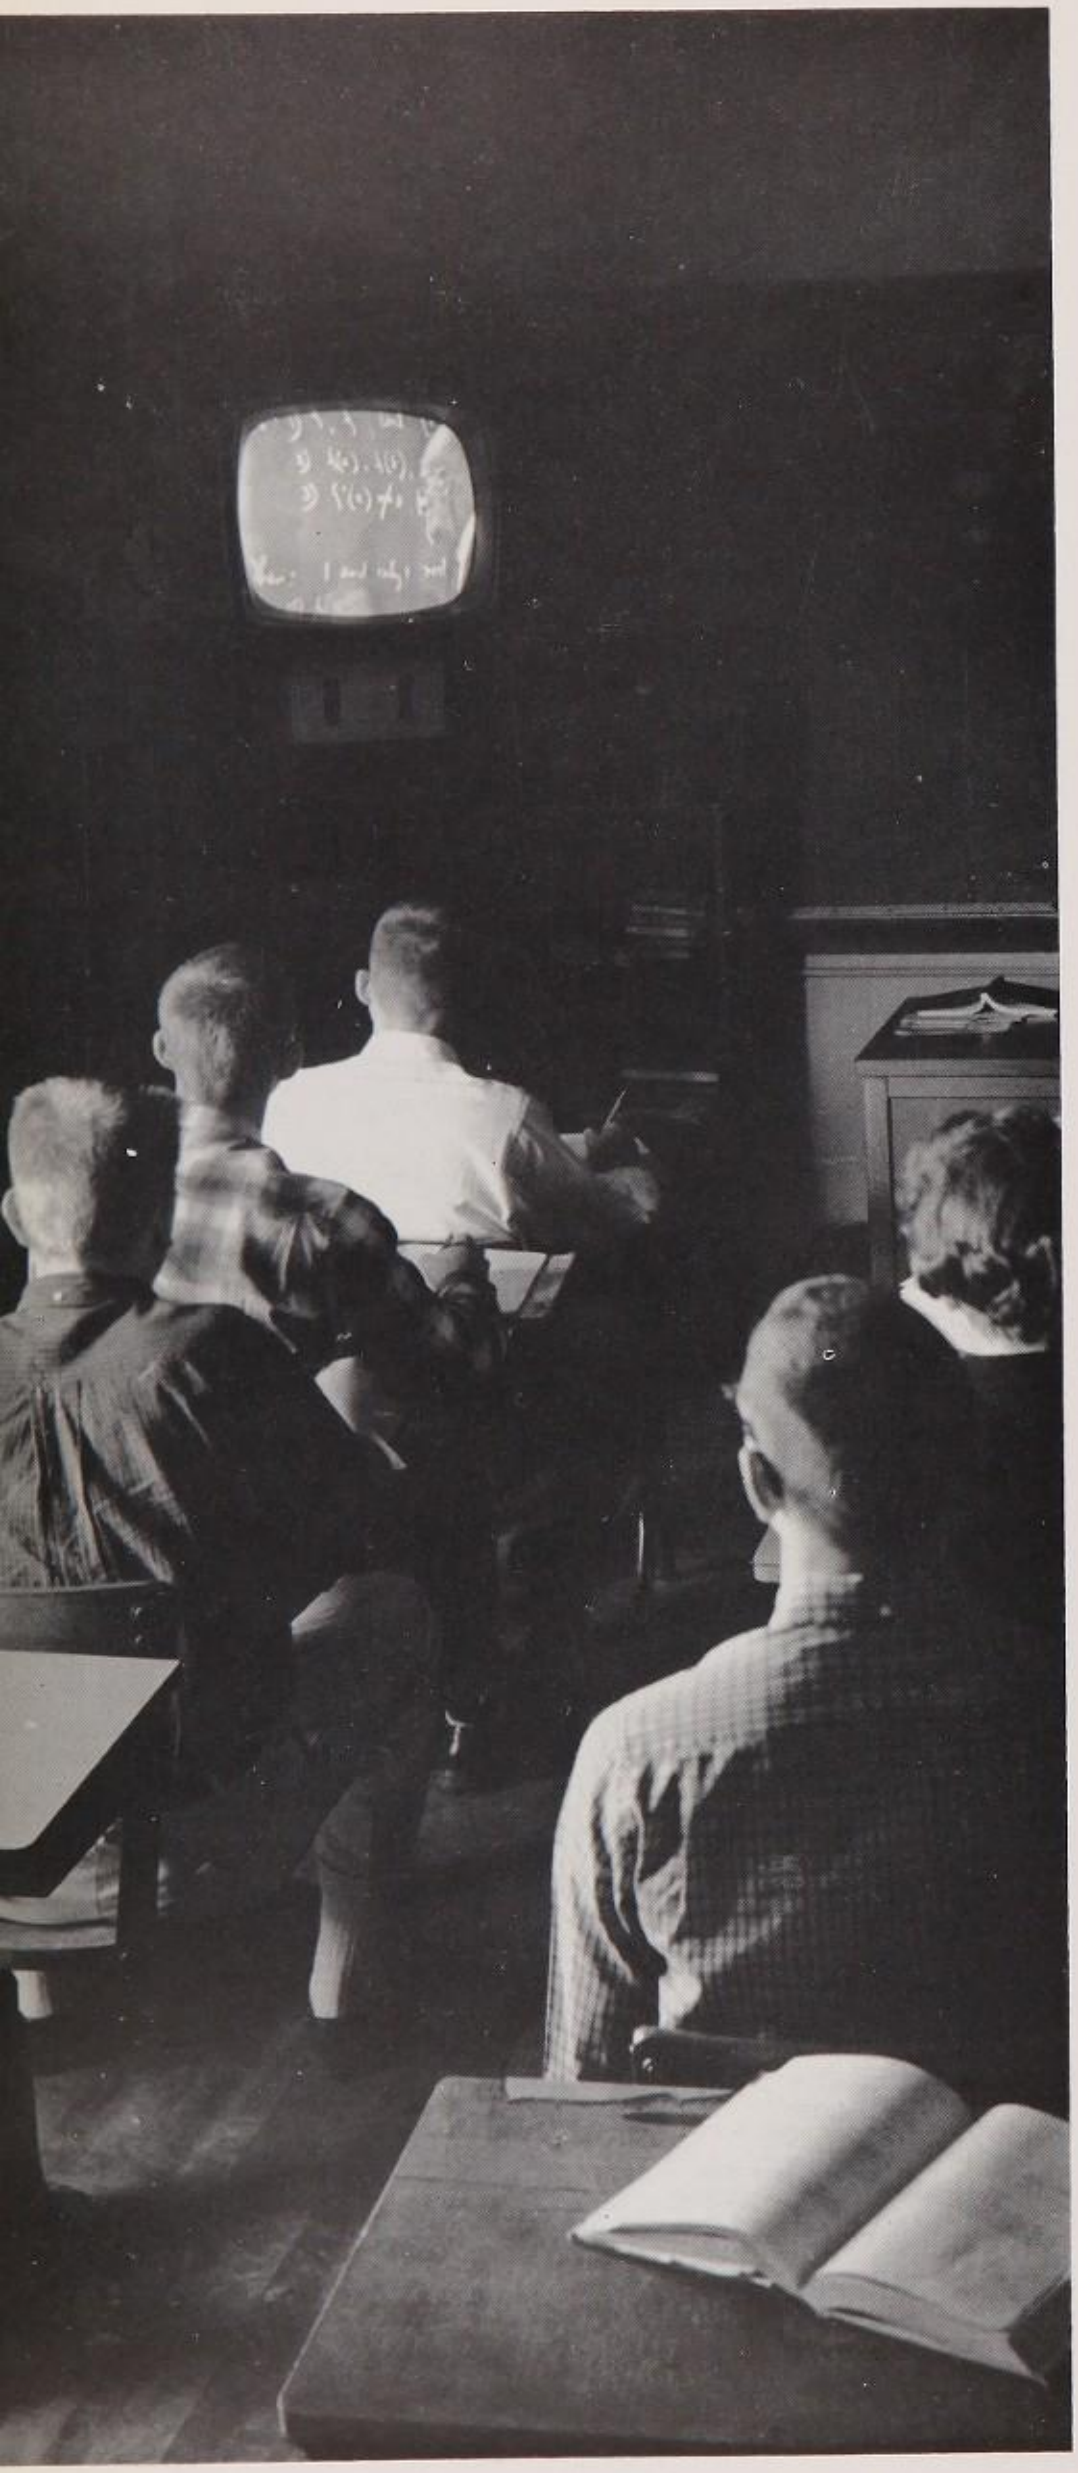
"Man" is the subject In Social Studies classes

Other places, other cultures, and other times stimulate the thinking of Western Hills students. Studying the problems of history to better understand the present, they absorb the wisdom and learning of many great thinkers from Socrates to William James. By reading about the lives of men such as William Pitt, Washington, Jefferson, and Lee, they see the application of thought to lives of action. Thus, in social studies classes, our students begin to form their own interpretation of the meaning of life.

Pictures and timely articles help students see the latest developments in the Far and Middle East. Janis Mauer, John Schroder, Donna Schneeman, and Charles Land profit from these timely helps to social studies.

The Algerian crisis, President Eisenhower's trip through Asia, and the Berlin debate are reviewed for the Junior Council on World Affairs seminar by Steve Spreen, Scott Butcher, and Linda Rack.

World history students, Joellyn Gambrel, Betty Wright, Shelby Louden, Karen Peet, Larry Hicks, and Eric Deerwester, develop a time line of important events, personalities and inventions. This unique chart enables the class to see the association of events in history.



Could the compass be wrong? No. Maryann Morris finds that geometry is really quite a difficult subject.

Sciences guide students to new horizons

Why is it impossible to predict the path of an electron? Is it possible that parallel lines do meet in space? How does an injured starfish regenerate new parts? These and many other questions race through the minds of Western Hills students who seek to discover the answers in their mathematics and science courses. Any day of the school year in the laboratories, one may find pupils dissecting fish, caring for plants, preparing demonstrations, doing a multitude of experiments by themselves, or vehemently discussing the nature of the universe. Down the main hall in a mathematics classroom one may find a drawing of a polyhedron, a calculus program on television, a student discussing the derivation of the cubic formula, or a deep and involved lecture on the applications of Boolean algebra. Western Hills students are certainly interested in the science and mathematics of the world of today.

Professor Gaylord Merriman from the University of Cincinnati gave television lectures on calculus to high school pupils.

Joe Klems and Margie Rohr prove the physics formulas for themselves as they work with the friction caused by a rolling object on an inclined plane.

Donna Stayin, Charles Jung, and Vicki Maurer are amazed by the complexity of our solar system.

Scalpel, probing needle, a crayfish, and the keen minds of Mark Dresser and Bob Sturm depict the search for knowledge in our biology classes.

Merchandising class members gain valuable experience while they sell in local department stores. Here Kathy Ireland and Carlene Poppe relax for a few seconds to compare some of the newly arrived merchandise.

West Hi prepares many for business world

Soon about one hundred twenty-five Western Hills pupils must go out on their own to find places in the world of business. Those from the merchandising class will find work in the field of buying and selling. Those who have taken salesmanship, advertising, and business law will discover careers in business as a return on their investment of time. Prepared for their careers by many courses at school, business students will employ their new skills as clerks, secretaries, stenographers, bookkeepers, and salesmen.

The complexity of the telephone company's switchboard awes visiting business students S. Rutledge, B. Burden, B. Horton, N. Griffith, S. Oster.

Virginia Roseberry, Helen Miller, and Sue Hoppe enjoy learning the skills of the office—typing, filing, taking dictation and operating the many modern machines of an efficiently run business of today.

The new personal typing course at Western Hills trains students to type their own notebooks, papers, reports, and other assignments for school.

Joseph Justen, Irma Schmidt, Elaine Erdman, and Pat Henn keep their ledgers accurate when they check their addition with a new business calculating machine.

An architectural drawing project was the building of a model kitchen by Dick Wagner, John Russell, Wayne Koelling, and Dennis Schermerhorn.

Career training is goal of Industrial Arts

Buzz, bang, zip, roar – a multitude of noises emanate from the shops everyday at Western Hills. The reason for all this activity? Perhaps it is to carve a breadboard, to weld a metal table, or to splice two wires together. Whatever the source, this disturbance is evidence of the training given to West High boys by the industrial shops. Knowledge of the use of the rip saw and planer may help a boy secure a job, or it may merely serve as a skill used in home tasks. Whether he takes wood shop, metal shop, print shop, or electric shop, a boy in the industrial program learns to be creative as well as steady and dependable.

Busily soldering, Glenn Bosse puts the finishing touch on an iron table.

Pinning the hem of Trudy Kolb's skirt, Sharon Lorch soon finds that straightening hemlines requires skill.

It's "A woman's world" in home economics

Savory odors from home economics classes permeate the halls at Western Hills daily as eager girls acquire new skills in the culinary art. Besides learning to prepare, cook, and serve delicious foods, West Hi girls learn to sew everything from aprons to dresses of their own design, to care for children, and to decorate their homes. All these skills prepare them either for glamorous careers in fashion designing, dietetics and related fields, or for careers as homemakers.

Giving a baby a bath, finding delightful books for tots, and learning other aspects of caring for children are experiences gained by Betty Bottamiller, Linda Kihnley, and Gail Sparks in home economics classes.

June Becker and Jean Anderson use their time after school to practice the exact fingering of the violin for the annual state orchestra contest.

Personal creativity is the challenge of the Arts

Everywhere there is beauty. The beauty from harmonic sounds, colors, and form are so pleasant to man that he imitates nature's excellence in his music and art. Great musicians, such as Verdi, Rubenstein, Tchaikovsky; and artists, such as Michaelangelo, da Vinci, and Millet, have been those who have been most successful in this imitation. At Western Hills students learn to appreciate these matters and to emulate them in their classes of art, music theory, choir, band, and orchestra. They learn to paint, play their instruments, or write their own compositions. Whatever Western Hills students do in life — whether they enter careers in the fine arts or not — they will better appreciate the beauty of nature and the beauty of man's artistic creation.

Composing music is an exciting experience. In music theory Nelson Diers works out his own arrangement with Ann Ackerman and Bruce Knapp.

Roller, knife, and linoleum block come together making prints for artist Pat Neale, who creates an intriguing picture by scraping, scratching.

John Hornberger, Bill Barnes, and Chris Gysin, three finalists in the Scholastic Art Award contest, are proud to see their work on display.

With Janet Schmidt's helpful suggestions, Carol Helle attempts to reproduce the skills of Old World craftsmen as she solders together the silver parts for her bracelet.

Kids have problems — but Mr. Strunk enjoys discussing them with Andy Paris, Cynthia Bolton, and Andrea Fitzgerald.

A rookie's first week is hectic as he gets a hazing and preview of the year

Rookies! They can be found almost everywhere from racing down the halls to buying up the school's supply of "Beat Elder" buttons. They accept the challenge of a new school with alacrity. One of the first hurdles they face is the lunchroom. They just can't believe that all the wonderful food is there for them to choose from. In fact, they have to be prodded just a little, and after they stop gawking, the lunch lines begin to move more smoothly. The stiff program which the rookies must take presents an academic challenge. The mountains of homework and the constant moving from class to class serve to stimulate them.
After the initial shock of finding that there is homework to do every night, they discover that with careful planning, they can also have fun. During the fall and early winter they eagerly participate in dramatics, clubs, and sports. Then come exams — and some rookies tremble and wish they were back in grade school.

"Hey leggo!" shouts rookie Al Barton, but senior Jim Wietholter firmly grabs him for breaking a West Hi rule — no running in the halls.

Brenda Pierce, Linda Pierce, Shiela Chinn are taking part in that great rookie pastime—exchanging friendship photographs.

So Mom said: "It's snowing outside and you have to wear those boots. I kept trying to tell her they're too small. Mothers just don't understand!"

At the beginning of the second semester changes occur. Girls who weren't too particular about their hair suddenly complain that it will be perfectly straight if they go in swimming. Boys suddenly develop man-sized appetites and really dig those ivy-league sweaters and continental trousers. Though seventh graders are proud of their appearance, they are even more anxious to show off their accomplishments. The school bus sounds like a meeting of the United Nations. Every rookie proceeds to show off his foreign language vocabulary, and the bedlam that results may confuse an outsider, but our rookie takes it in stride.

Junior High produces its first play – "Cinderella"

"Oh, I Just can't go out there! Me? In front of all those people? How can I possibly? My stomach has butterflies on top of butterflies."
These familiar sounds heard backstage the night of November 20, 1959, heralded the opening of the junior high play Cinderella.
Amid the hustle and bustle behind the scenes, staunch crew members quickly straightened costumes, applied make-up and arranged props, peeking occasionally and excitedly at the audience. Suddenly, the stage manager called, "One minute until the curtain goes up!" The atmosphere changed. Excitement and noise turned into a quiet mumble. Cinderella, Donna Samuelson, took her place beside the scrub bucket, and the play began.

Poor little Cinderella keenly feels the stern injustice of her stepsisters.

Cindy's dreams come true as she dances with her prince at the ball.

In the last act, Cindy wins by half an inch with the smallest foot in town.

"Cinderella" matinee — the

For weeks, the entire cast of Cinderella had rehearsed hours after school under the able direction of the dramatics teacher, Mr. Gerald E. Brown, and student director Lynda Langdon. Prominent members of the cast, in addition to Donna, were Tom Peters, Ed Erickson, Pat Noble, Jennifer Glenn, Stephanie Chenoweth, and Yvonne Creech. After a successful Friday night performance, the cast gave a Saturday matinee to the extreme delight of numerous small brothers and sisters and their friends who filled the auditorium with exuberant approval.

Planning activities, projects, and a better school government are Sue Kamp, Jim Zimmer, Jean Huseman, Dolores Seyferth, and adviser, Mr. Chesley.

begins with Junior High

Stacks and stacks of homework, endless hours of studying — life is dismal to our new eighth graders. They feel weighed down by added responsibilities. Yet, they are not so overworked as they would have us believe. They are just becoming aware of the challenge life is presenting to them. Conjugations of verbs go buzzing about in their heads, along with the Preamble to the Constitution, and an assortment of new terms. Foot-pound, participle, Industrial Revolution, and kinetic vie with arbitration, geography, aorta, and gender. So it is with unbounded energy that our eighth graders attack their new problems. Study habits are improved and the excitement of new courses stimulate their active minds.

Young students are soon very enthusiastic rooters

Eighth graders are "old" hands at school work by the time exams come around. They no longer tremble when that word, meaning "exams", is mentioned. By this time they know for sure that there is no way to be exempt, so eighth graders take them in their stride and do the best they can. Since "all work and no play make Jack a dull boy," eighth graders have some fun too. The candy machines' best customers enjoy taking an active part in sports, clubs, and dramatics. They can be found attending all Junior High activities and functions. Thus, eighth graders go merrily on their way, enjoying another school year.

Junior Band, the pride of the Junior High, is close to the hearts of these aspiring musicians. Here they listen intently to instructions from Mr. Brady.

Many activities are open to the interested student

School spirit is the keyword of the freshman year. The majorettes, cheerleaders, drum major, and the junior high band reflect the exuberance and vigor with which freshmen attack their busy schedule. They can hardly find time enough for the activities, sports, parties, and dances, common to freshman life.

Freshmen must also give special attention to arranging their programs. Whether freshmen take a general course, a college preparatory course, or a business course, they must plan now for future years, deciding which subjects will be most beneficial.

Jr. High Drum Major Ed Erickson shows promising form and precision.

"Practice makes perfect" according to Jr. High majorettes Sharon Freese, Cherry Gromen, and Lynn Klosterman, as they warm up before a game.

Cheerleaders Sue Kamp, Lynn Kaemmerle, Donna Stayin, Betty Jo Patterson, Diane Bruns, Delores Seyferth, Jeriann Alexander, and Sharon Lorch display enthusiasm which enlivens Junior Hi sports events.

Ninth graders have a taste of newspaper work with a page in the "Breeze"

Planning for an active career on the "Breeze" are the Jr. High editors B. Patterson and L. Scholl. Assistant editors J. Baker and J. Haydock look on.

In this gay but frantic year, freshmen become the esteemed leaders of the junior high.
They exhibit their leadership qualities in editing the junior high page of the "Breeze", joining and becoming officers of the numerous clubs, leading the band down the field as drum major and majorettes, and making up the various teams and crews of the junior high. They accept these responsibilities as a part of growing up, never saying that they have too much to handle, for these freshmen realize that they are the ones who profit.
After they have gained all this experience, they must then go on to become tenth graders, the rookies of the senior high.

Yuletide ornaments deck

"Deck the halls with boughs of holly" — and that's exactly what the students at West Hi did to accent the joyous yuletide season.
The traditional Christmas tree, gaily decorated with multi-colored baubles, stood in the front hall.
But the real topic of conversation centered around the ornate decorations in the main office and in the corridors.
Oohs and ahs were heard for days — certainly a compliment to the art department and Student Council under whose supervision the novel decorations were made.

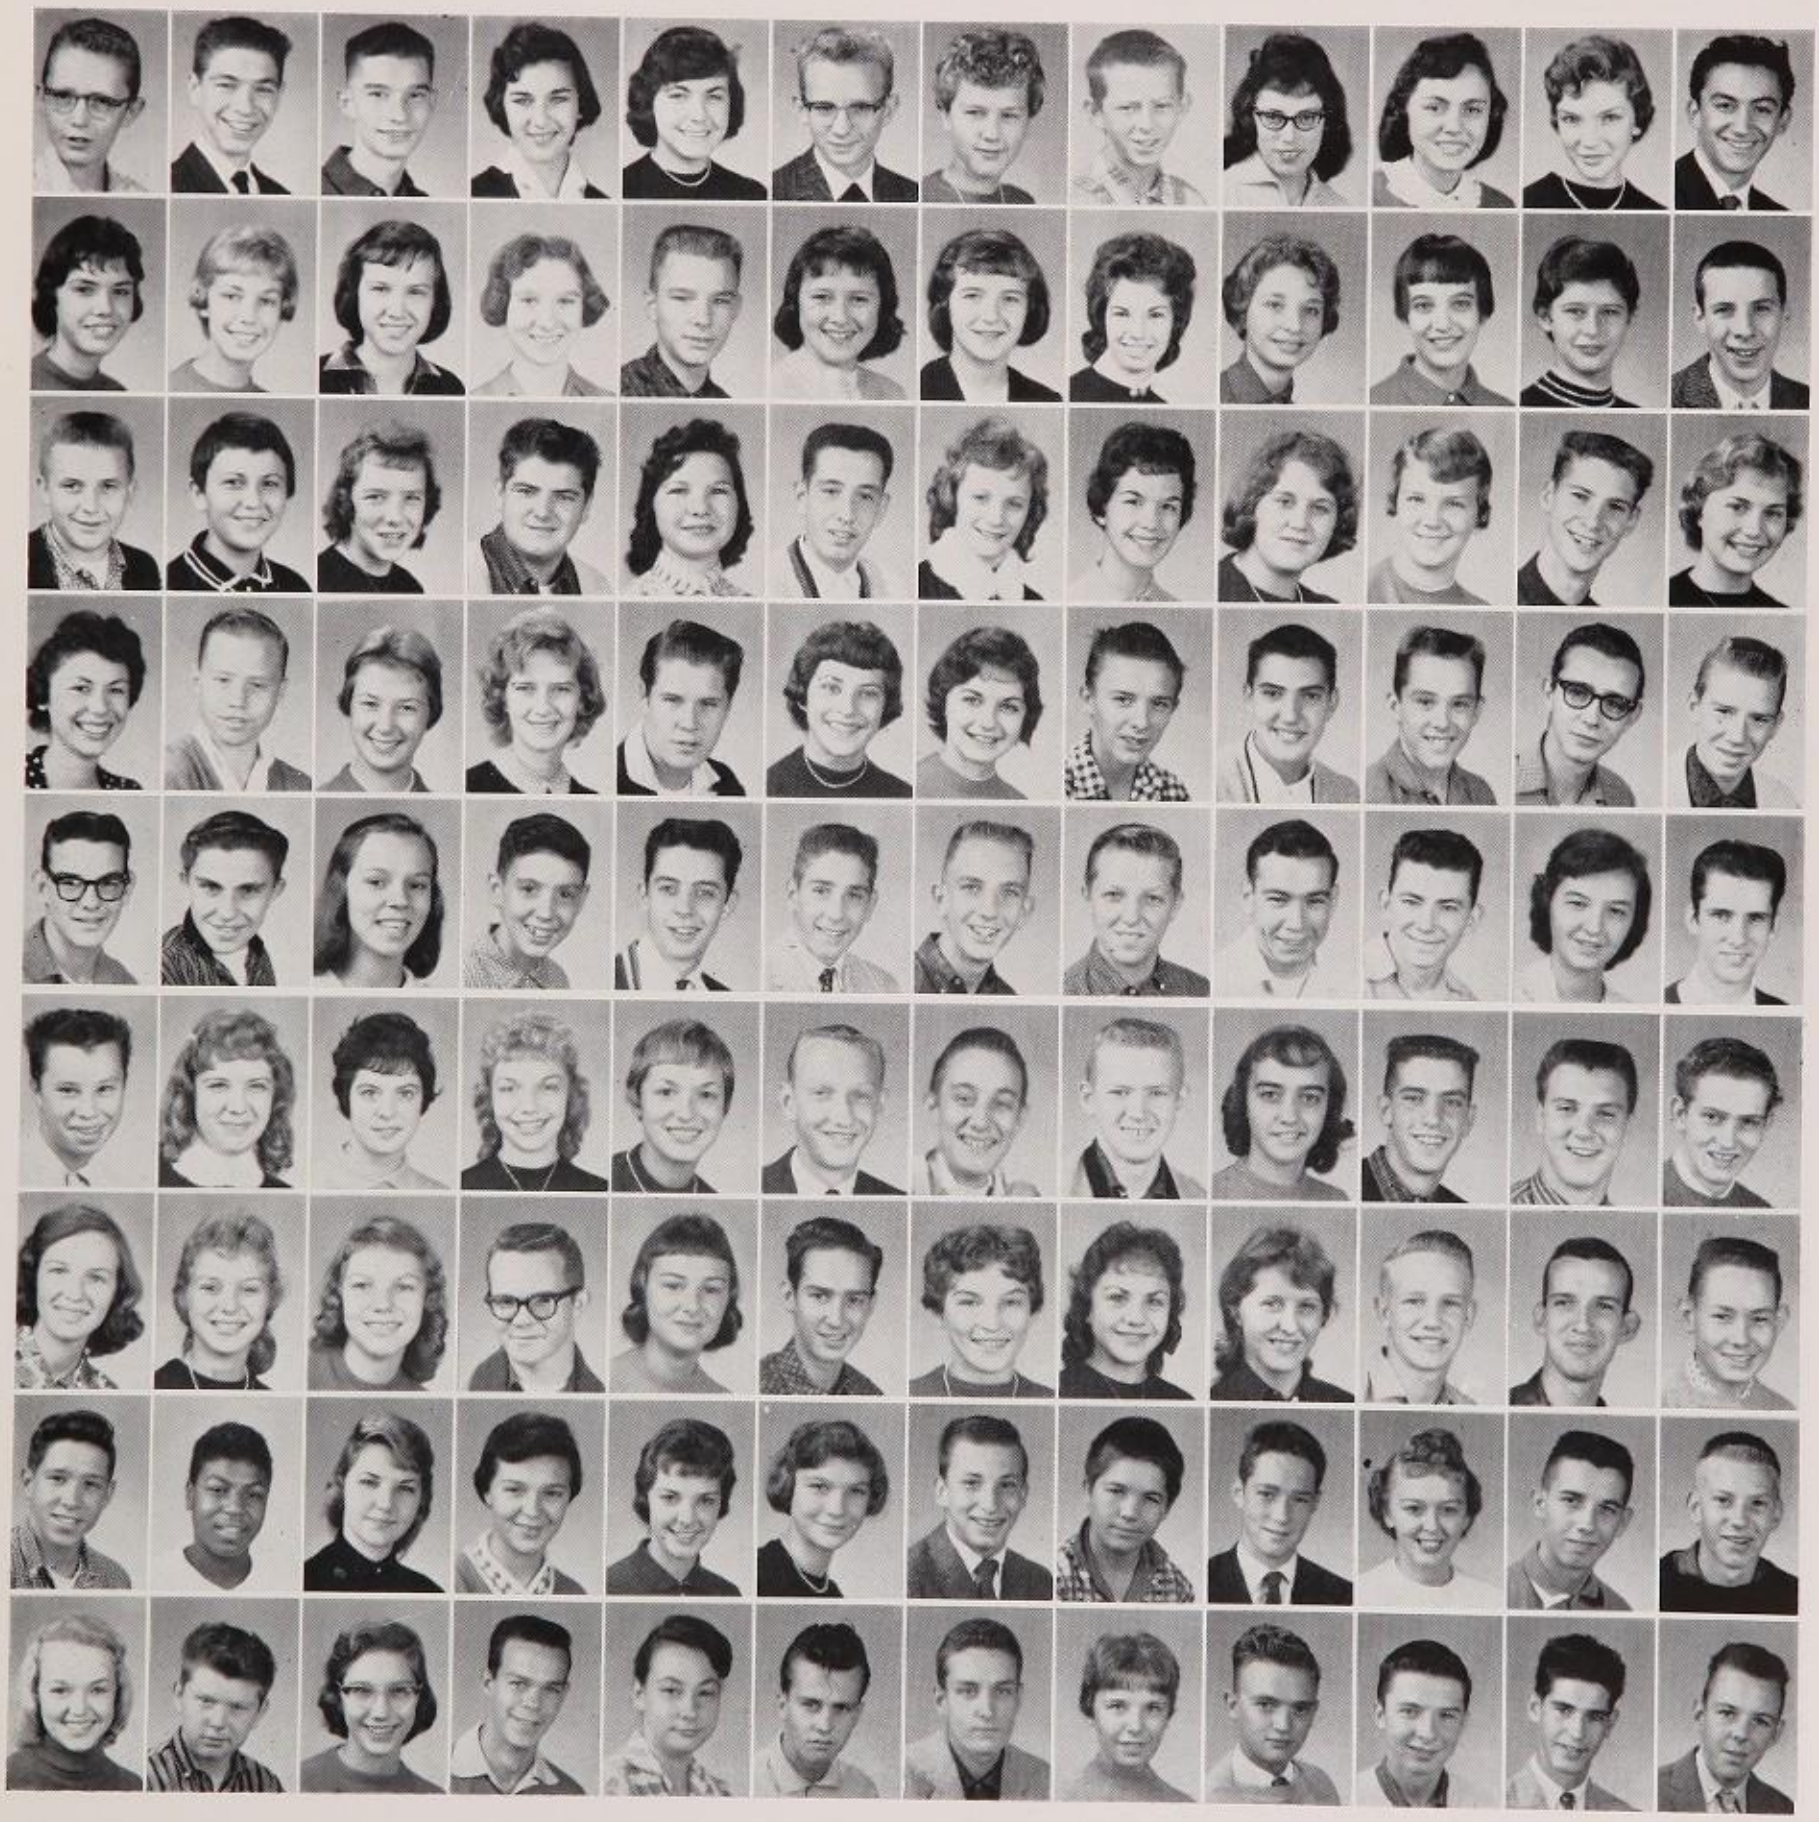
the halls as the Christmas season reaches its height



Sandy Shank and Barb Bischoff, in their unique costumes, display the boar's head which was used for Latin Club's Old English Christmas Party.

The Boar's Head Feast puts variety in Christmas

The Christmas season was in full swing in the halls, in the classes, and in the clubs at West Hi. Students busily planned gay holiday programs for their respective clubs. Latin Club presented an English Christmas, complete with boar's head and carolers; the traditional breaking of the pinata was enjoyed by Spanish students; members of French Club enjoyed French pastries; G.A.A. held its Christmas party in the girls' gym; and Y-teens and Hi-Y, showing the real Christmas spirit, went caroling at a home for the aged. Traditionally, the Senior Choir walked through the halls singing Christmas carols, the perfect ending to the festive week preceding Christmas.

A spirit of love prompts many Thanksgiving baskets

The tenth grade, the largest class in our school, has a membership of 570 students. Some of these students come from Gamble, some from Oyler, but the greatest number come from the junior high of Western Hills. Consequently, tenth graders spend the beginning of the year getting to know each other.

The new sophomores must make the big decisions whether to join Y-teens or Pep Club, French Club or Health Careers Club, to go out for football or track, whether to rush sororities and fraternities. In some of these activities there are even a few opportunities for them to exhibit leadership as committee members or as officers. Student Council offers a new challenge to homeroom representatives to make decisions about school activities.

Some pupils are elgible for entrance into accelerated classes, which offer greater opportunities for developing their abilities in specific fields. Others, especially those interested in business courses and office practice, may take jobs during free bells, in various offices.

Attending senior high activities, such as dances, clubs, and sports events, provide many pleasurable and memorable experiences for the members of this huge class whose future as a class depends upon their ability to become acquainted and to learn to work with each other.

Filling baskets at Thanksgiving is a West High tradition. The immeasurable pleasure which Western Hills students feel in sharing with others at Thanksgiving time is expressed in the happy faces of willing helpers Bob Bradley, Ron Spaulding, Dave Paulsen, Tom Heidler, Dale Brandt, and Arch Martin.

The life of a Junior is a composite of many things

As Juniors, the members of the eleventh grade realize that they now are the assistants and understudies of the leaders of West Hi – the Seniors.
With this realization comes the knowledge that they must plan and work, watch and help, so that next year their tasks will be accomplished with efficiency.
The first excitement of the momentous junior year centers around the election of the class officers.
Hopes and guesses are on the tongue of almost every eleventh grader.
Vigorous campaigns are launched and the supporters of the various candidates proclaim their worthiness in thunderous voice. After the excitement has died down, the class officers become accustomed to their new responsibilities, and the class members proceed with the first big "all Junior – only Junior" event of the year – the Junior Class Roundup.
Everyone in the eleventh grade is invited to this western type evening of fun.
Skits, stunts, and square dancing make this a pleasant occasion for all.

Pat Roth and Gayle Wood are showing off the latest fads at West Hi — trench coats, white gym shoes, and of course, the ever popular wool socks.

Here we have the modern version of studying — Marlene Prince concentrates with drink in hand and in a most comfortable (?) position.

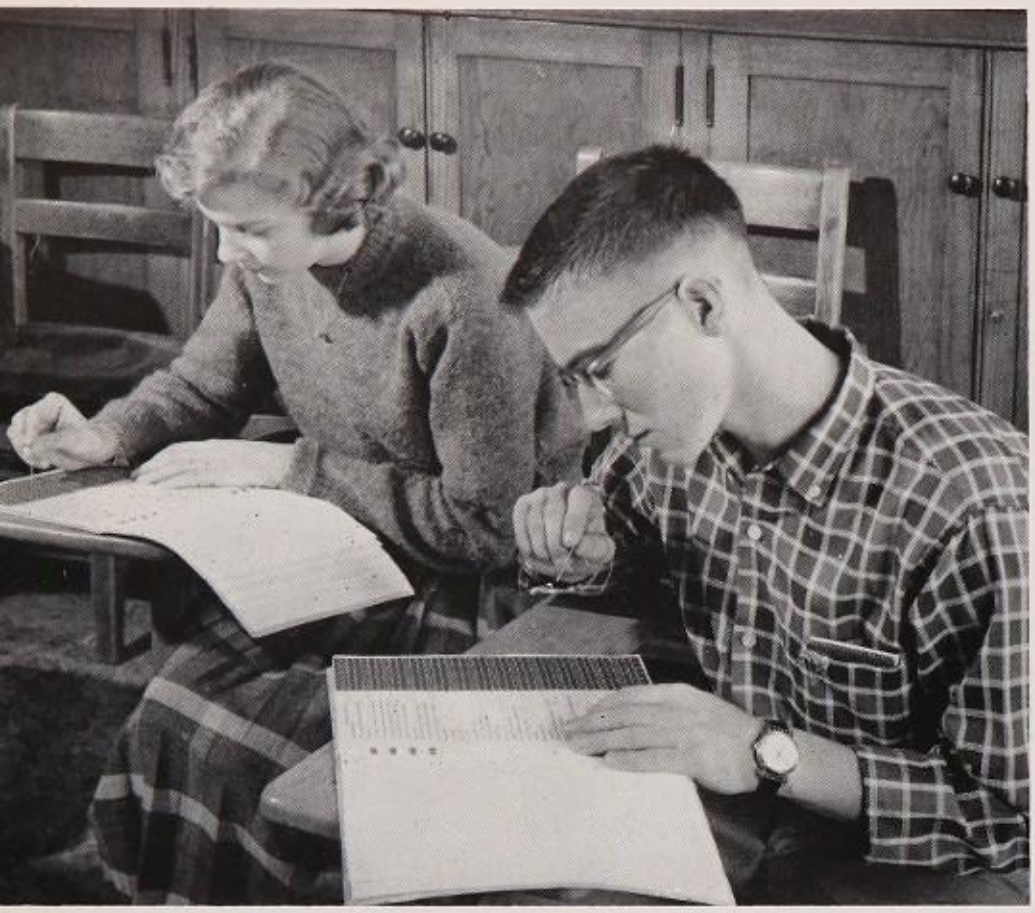
Juniors spend the year in discovering their aptitudes and making future plans



"Would you rather go horseback riding or perform a chemistry experiment?" This is just one of the many questions Joyce Beard and Gary Murphy must answer before they complete the Kuder Preference Record, a unique test devised to aid students in discovering their special interests.

Then comes the time for the big Junior-year decisions — the choice and type of class rings. After the choices have been made the Juniors eagerly await the arrival of the coveted rings. Elections, social events and activities, however, are not the most important things in a Junior's life. Now serious thoughts for the future loom on the horizon and studies are of paramount importance. Then begin tests and advisory conferences which help in the planning of one's future. Interest inventories ("Is my greatest interest really zoology?"), aptitude tests ("Are you sure I won't make a good teacher?"), and college board examinations ("Whew! I'll never make it.") are the order of the day.

Juniors take memories of past years with them

With spring come warmer days and the beginning of social events. The Junior-Senior Prom is the biggest and most elaborate of all these events. Then there are the banquets, banquets, and more banquets of all the various school organizations in which the Juniors play a large part. Many surprised juniors find themselves cheerleaders, Daisy Chain girls, or officers of Student Council and other numerous clubs. With these new honors and responsibilities, Juniors feel at last the joy of being full-fledged leaders of West High.

Juniors and Seniors receive honors

During our underclass years, we had dreamt of the time when we would be Seniors, and now the exciting time had arrived. Having reached our destination we felt both strange and wonderful. Our feelings of superiority and dignity intermingled with our fears of inadequacy as we started on a frenzied whirl-wind of thought and action.

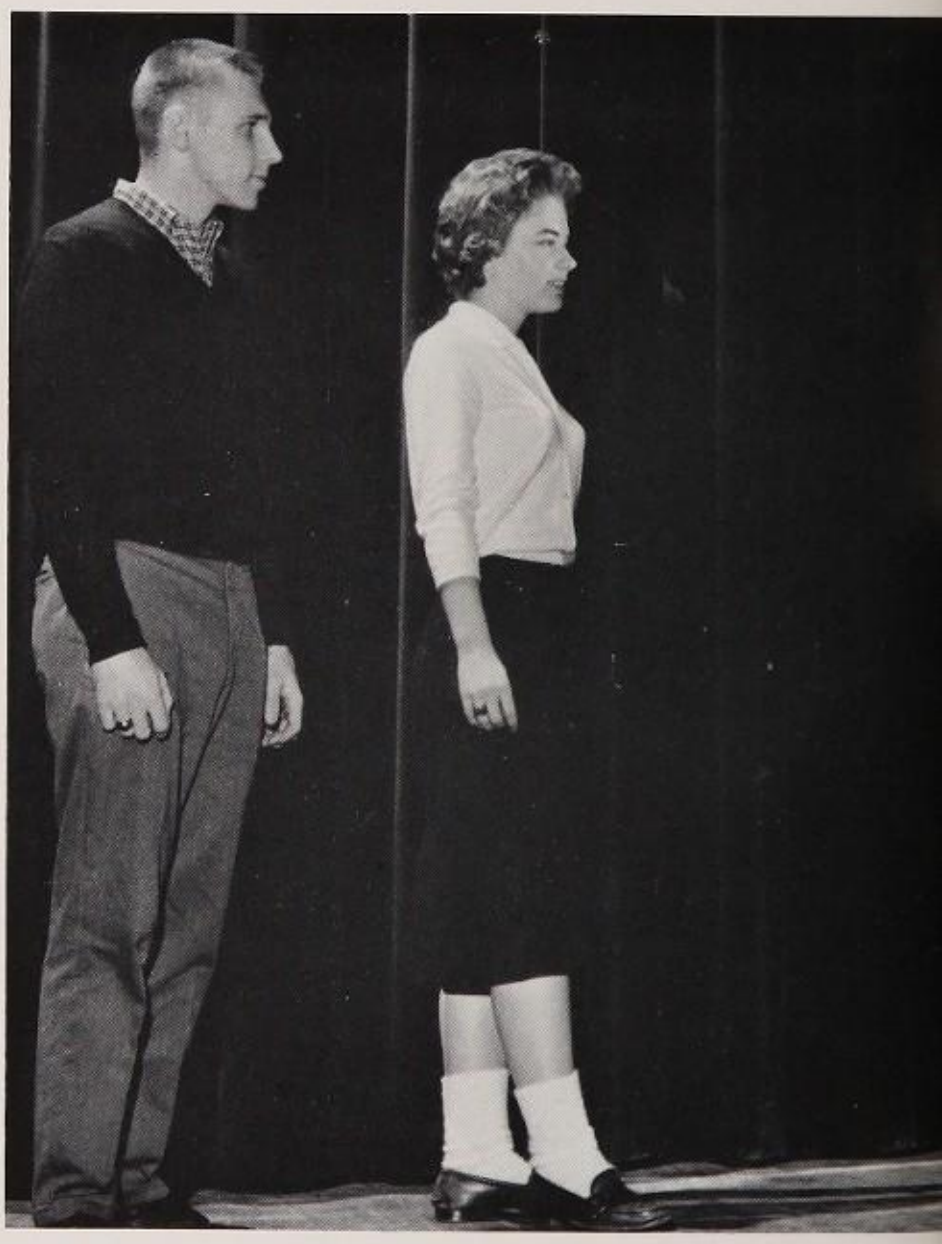
To begin our year's activities we staged the Chuckwagon Reel. A delicious chuckwagon meal, and entertainment by our class comedians, started the evening which culminated with western-style square dancing.

Gaily we flew from studying to football games, until suddenly it was exam time. During the last minute cramming all of us lackadaisically prepared for our exams.

Before we realized it, our wonderful Senior year approached its close, and the first of our year-end activities, the Junior-Senior Prom, arrived. Soft lights, dreamy music, and billowing dresses were an integral part of this memorable evening.

Then Class Day came. The march around school and the class history recalled to us our past experiences and our silly blunders.

Now only one event remained—graduation. To the beautiful strains of Pomp and Circumstance we marched ceremoniously down the long aisle to take our places on the stage. Amidst the sighs and tears we listened to the dramatic ceremony while we solemnly looked into the uncertain future.



Mr. Havlovic extends congratulations to Joe Klems, Shiela Somers, and Bob Yung who, among others, receive the coveted Cum Laude honor.

Seniors close an

If a bright shiny car is any indication of a good time, then Butch Snider and Marge Haft have an excellent ticket to an exciting graduation night.

Marge and Butch eagerly anticipate the events of graduation evening: the solemn march down the aisle of Music Hall, the inspiring ceremony, the soft lights and gentle music of the graduation dance, and the fun of post graduation parties and then the relaxing day of fun at Coney Island.

As the bugle sounds, hushed expectancy fills the hall, and graduation begins. With a radiant face and hesitant steps, Marge traverses the long distance to the Music Hall stage. Carol Eggerding, Donna Murphy, and Beryl Wulfekamp follow.

estatic year with fond memories and a forward look

Graduation, the beginning and the end, forcibly brings to each of us the realization that we are now grown and that we must begin to take an active part in the adult world. Each one of us remembers the pertinent words of Hugh Walpole in his novel Fortitude; "Make me a man — to be afraid of nothing . . . to be ready for everything — love friendship, success . . . to take if it comes . . . to care nothing if these things are not for me — Make me brave! Make me brave."

The Challenge of leisure time

We in the United States, more than any other people, have leisure time—extra hours which we must learn to use wisely and creatively. Frequently, we ignore this challenge, or we face it with a restless uncertainty. The broad extracurricular life of Western Hills, however, offers us a beginning. With activities ranging from sports and music, publications and language clubs, to fraternities and sororities, dramatics and student council, we explore our interests and develop hobbies of vital meaning in our life.

Producing the hustle and bustle, the pellmell excitement and humor of the Package Plan Assembly hurls enthusiastic students into frantic activity and hectic, last-minute rehearsals.

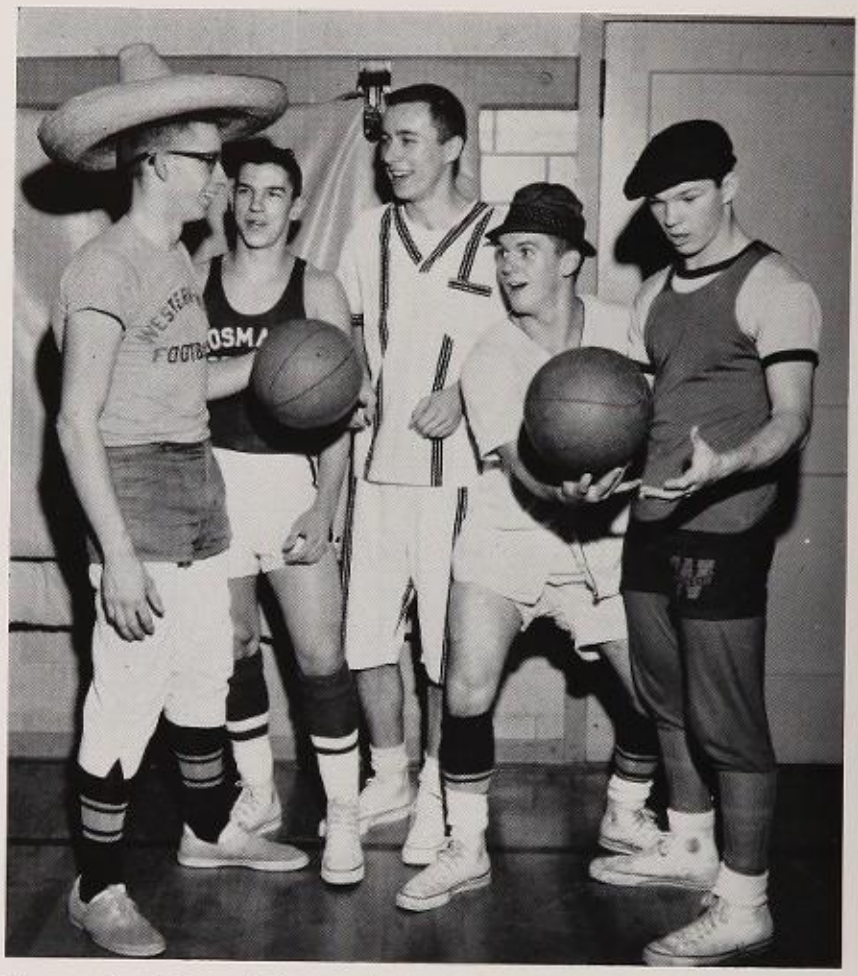
Rollicking carnival fun and precise ballet — these two activities, symbolic of the challenge of our leisure hours, stand at opposite poles in the field of individual development. One is carefree enjoyment — the occasional bit of fun for fun's sake; the other marks the culmination of hours of rigorous work. Both, however, are profoundly a part of individual development in leisure hours.

Sweet notes, dramatic

And is THIS the faculty? Where did these fellows come up with such crazy outfits? Some people surely do change after three o'clock.



Wow, look at these fellows; they're all ready to play the faculty in the annual Maroon W-Faculty game. Don't let the faculty win boys!

Bringing a humorous note to a half-time show is Ed Erickson straddling West Hi's human donkey.

School spirit abounds during exciting Pow Wow before the West High-Elder game.

lines, keen competitions

The Yuletide spirit comes to West Hi as Carol Bertsche and Harry Mahaffey decorate the Student Council Christmas tree in the hall.

A highlight of the social season was the Senior Class Roundup where J. Brannon and D. Skinner amused the audience with their comical antics.

Beat Urbana? We surely did. No one will forget the thrills of the Regional Basketball Tournament.

"We've got the Coach, Team! Pep, Steam! Fifteen 'RAHS' for West Hi's Team."

School activities spark new achievement

Flowers, food, rides, and raffles signal Carnival Time at West Hi.

Junior High Drama? Certainly! The small fry have talent too. Their first play was "Cinderella" which proved to be a smashing success.

"Yea, Mustangs, fight, fight, fight!" cheers the excited hopeful crowd.

The inspirational and sonorous voices of the Western Hills choir blend together to express thought through beautiful music.

Out of magical toyland come Sherry Mayleban and Mary Leicht, who do a delightful doll dance for the crowded appreciative Bandwagon audience.

In the Paris scene of Bandwagon, French artists — Barb Ziegler, Sue Backus, Carol Bertsche, and Gail Lehnhoff — take time from their brushes and easels to work the strings of their marionettes Barb Piatt, Donna Vorherr, Jean Winters, and Nance Jo Jones.

With elaborate costumes and a lively script, "Charley's Aunt" was a hilarious contribution to West High fun, produced by the Dramatics class.

Members of the Breeze and Annual staffs pun the pop song, "Kookie, Kookie Lend Me Your Comb."

Students enjoy a variety of assemblies

Entertaining! Hilarious! Educational! These terms describe just a few of the assemblies which were presented at West Hi this year. Probably one of the best remembered was the one featuring Larmen Sherwood, who, although blind himself, made students "see" how well the blind could manage on their own. Other interesting assemblies included the Armistic Day assembly, the Christmas ballet, and the hilarious Package Plan assembly. The Western Hills band, orchestra, and choir combined their talents to bring students and teachers several hours of musical pleasure; and pep assemblies, featuring the cheerleaders and team members, promoted school spirit during the football and basketball seasons.

Clickity-click go the pony chorus feet as they dance to advertise the new package plan to the student body.

Thanksgiving rolls around and West Hi students remember less fortunate families by giving canned goods as one of Student Council's projects.

Dick and Wayne provide a comical skit to show soap and towel fees are included in the Package Plan offered this year.

A beautiful Russian Folk dance was presented by Mary Whitehurst, Marilyn Bicher, and Bonnie Henthorn during the entertaining Christmas assembly.

In his absorbing assembly program Dr. Bernard gave to us an intimate glimpse of Dr. Schweitzer's work.

Written by Mr. Hobson, the Veterans Day assembly proved very impressive.

Drama plays an important role at West Hi

The drama classes, under the direction of Mr. Brown played an important part at Western Hills this year. For the first time in West Hi's history, the junior high gave a play, Cinderella, which proved to be a smashing success. A matinee provided a special treat for younger brothers and sisters. The Senior Class presentation, The Desparate Hours, was followed by the Junior Class comedy production, Charlie's Aunt. Rounding out the season, the drama classes entered the district contest with the one act play, Separate Tables.

"Put more expression in those lines," coaches Mr. Brown. JoAnn, who has a leading part in the Junior Class Play, appreciates his advice.

This is drama? Yes, indeed! Every play needs a competent stage crew as Pam, Russ, Marge, and Wenda soon find out.

"What a hair-do," exclaims Sue. Kathy thinks it's hilarious since she doesn't have to wear it! "Oops!" cries Donita, "that's a long eyebrow you have, Sandy." Powder isn't very tasty to Valerie, but maybe Chris will improve in time. The girls agree that learning the art of make-up is fun.

As they join the gang for the Thespian "Come As You Are Party," Betty, Rick, Marilyn, and Mary are anxious for the fun to start.

Dave Root, Bob Lantry, and Paul Westrich enact a part of "Charley's Aunt," a hilarious eighteenth century farce given by the Junior Class.

Police officers Arch Martin, Russ Crawford, Dave Root, and Jack Sommers study the clues that may be their first big break.

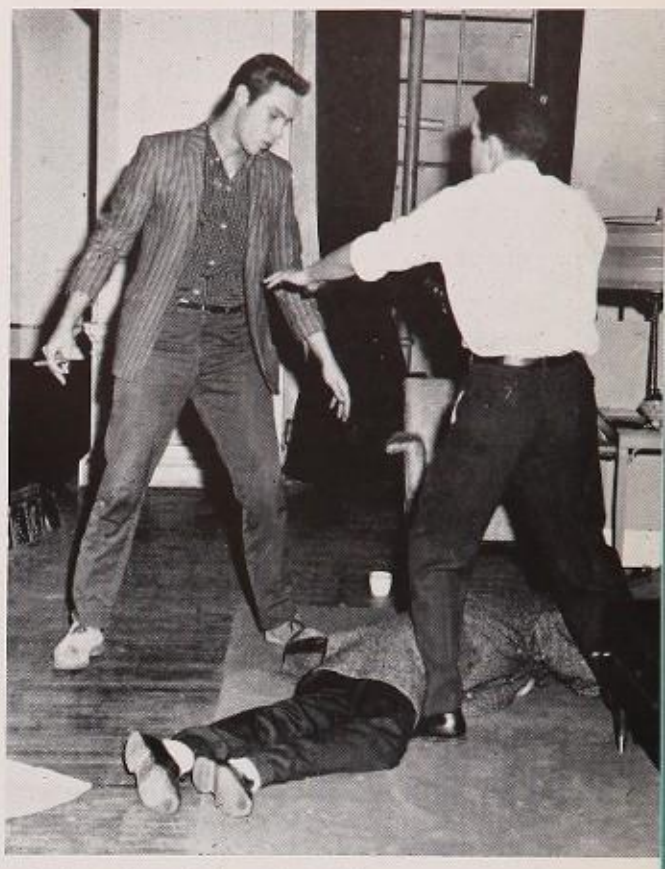
Terror reigns through "Desperate Hours"

This year, for the Senior Class Play, the dramatics department presented The Desperate Hours. Its exciting plot dealt with a search for three escaped convicts who forced their way into the home of a typical suburban family. As the clues mounted, the audience was kept almost in terror, wondering whether the police would arrive in time to save the family. Effective staging and good acting combined to keep the mood of suspense throughout the play. Under the able direction of Mr. Brown, the cast put on one of the best plays ever produced at West Hi.

Convict Harry Adams releases his rage on Bob Lantry, father of the captive family, while the mother, Lynda Langdon, looks on in terror.

"Remember, Pop, I could kill you for kicks."

"No! You don't have a stinkin' thing to say!"



Bob is floored by John Miller.

The dogged effort of the local police to locate the three convicts amuses special agent Martin.

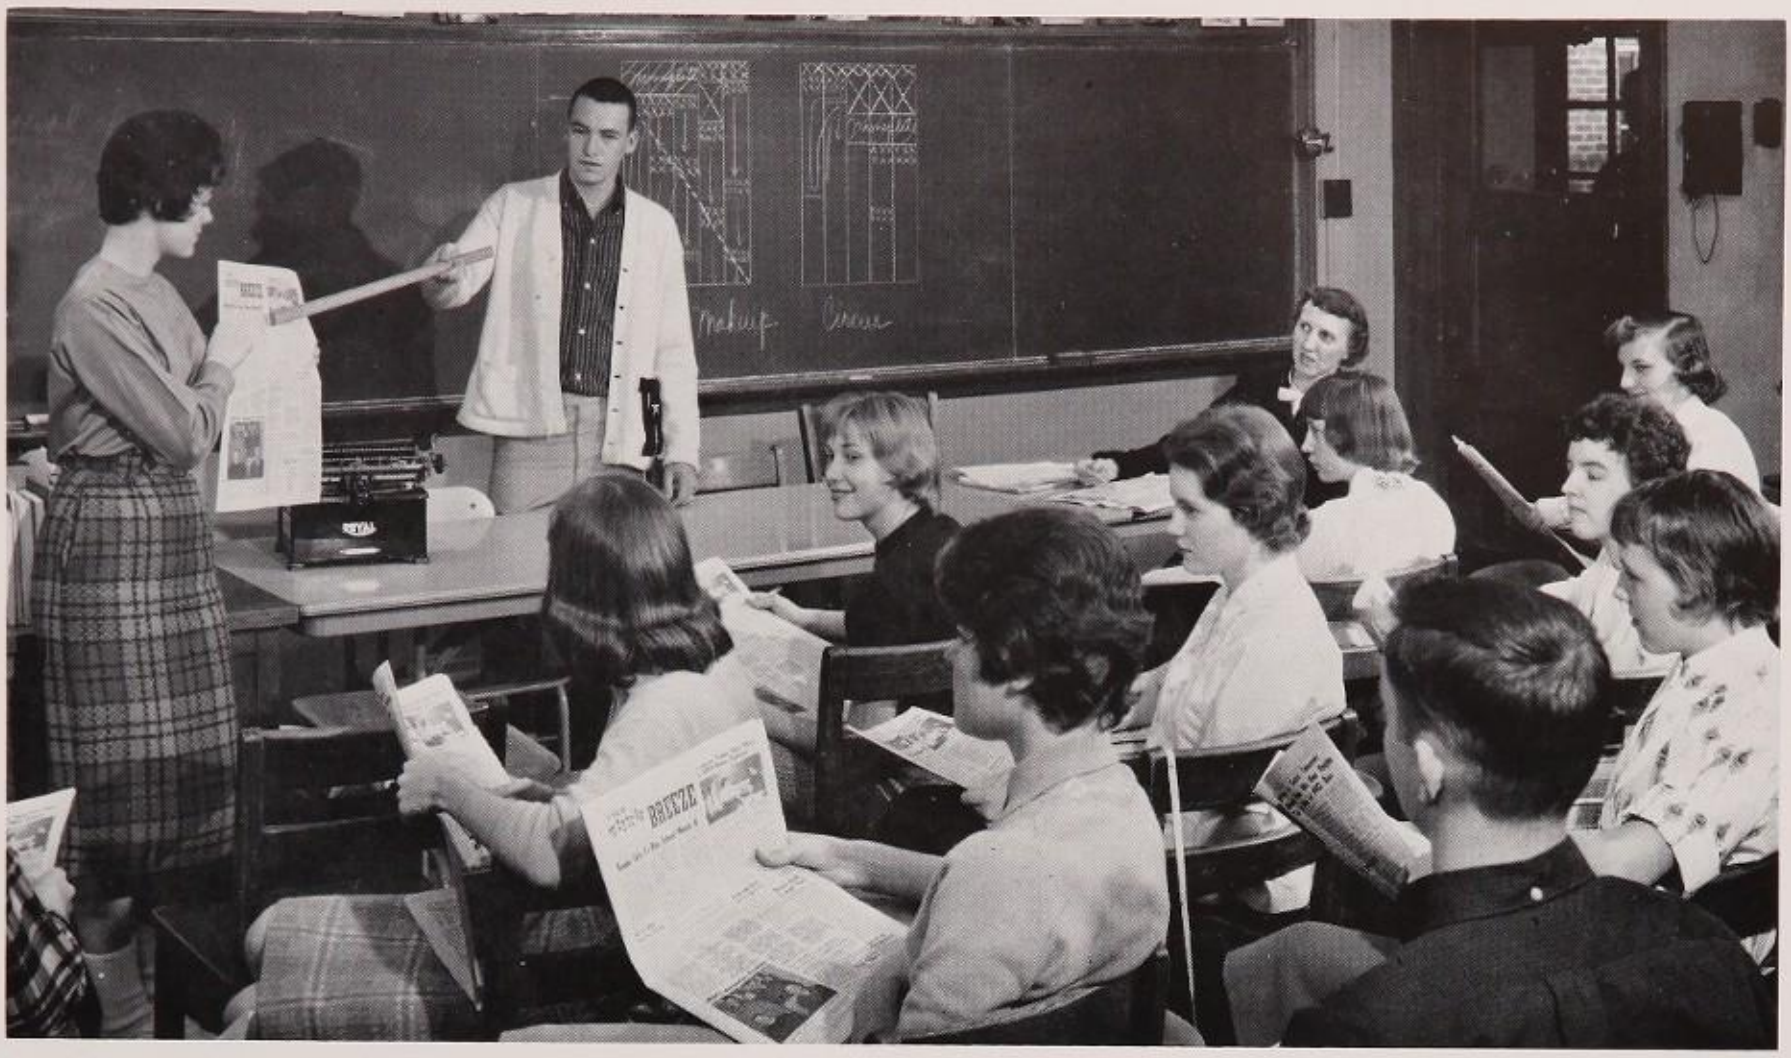
Action rises when the family attempts to gain its freedom by attacking convict Lee Waldorf, youngest of the gunmen.

T. Maddux, L. Kohl, and C. Helmbold take pride in looking at their finished product, but Myrna Snodgrass has started the next edition.

Deadlines must be met by the Breeze Staff

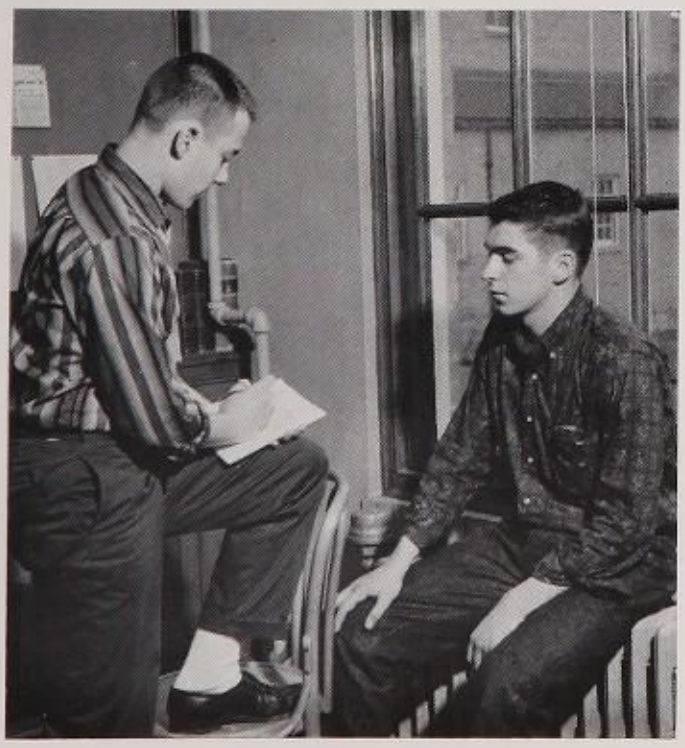
Everything from such interesting tasks as interviewing personalities like the playwright James Thurber and the "Fabulous" Fabian to the exacting chores of proofreading copy and counting heads confronts the staff of the Western Hills Breeze. Members must first sell advertising to pay for the many costs of running the paper. Then, after the search for news, ever-mindful of approaching deadlines, they must plan their layouts on the board and on dummy sheets, write their stories, and see that they are typed and readied for the printer. In addition, some members of the staff, because of their work on the school paper, often get the opportunity to write for the daily papers.

It's the day before press day, and all through the Breeze staff, people are rushing frantically to finish their jobs. The deadline must be met!



Members of the journalism class, striving to master the techniques of the trade, learn to make a page layout from T. Carroll and N. Weiss.

"What is the latest word on the baseball team, Lenny?" Allen Quimby, the busy boy's sports editor, interviews Lenny Stahl, a member of our varsity baseball team.



Kathy Frobe and Sue Geiringer pitch in to help Sue Petry and Judy Fritz get the Breezes ready for distribution to the homeroom representatives in the morning.

Initial planning for the Annual involves choosing a theme, developing the theme around school fields and dividing the book into sections. Here struggling with the process are Ken Smith, Jan Maschmeyer, Bill Wynne, Bonnie Bizarri, Charles Yarbrough, Carol York, Marsha Bauer, Karen Ott.

Challenges of the Annual harass the staff

Sixth bell, any day of the school year, one may find in the Annual room a spirit of buzzing activity.
At the boards, some students compose, count, and recount captions for their section.
Other staff members, seated at their desks, labor over copy or patiently wait in line to have it checked by the adviser. Editors plan pictures, help take them, or view critically the ones returned from the photographer. All staff members keep in mind that everything in the book must be built around the theme of Challenge.
Finally, after months of this harassing activity,
the book is sent off to the printer,
and staff members hopefully await the finished product.

Why don't we do that caption over, Sheila? I'm next Miss Weber. Please look at mine because I have to leave early. Clamoring for advice from the adviser are Dick, Pat, Janet, Pat, Ruth, and Sheila.

The requirements for attractive layouts become evident when Mrs. Goodfellow explains and illustrates them to Annual Staff members — Judy Diers, Barbara Uecke, Connie Warner, Jan Lineback, LaVerne Seyferth, and Susan Foote.

Beryl, Pat, and Randy show their ideas for the next picture to Mr. Benson who is able to add his professional touch.

Records to the right of them, receipts to the left of them, bills in front of them, and letters awaiting — the Business Section attacks its work for the Annual. Doing their important job, are Arden Wander, Mr. Love, Janet Ankenbauer, Steve Spreen, and Billie Jean Meyer.

Although victory ranks first, ardent West Hi football fans find band shows, cheerleaders, majorettes, and mascots contribute exciting thrills.

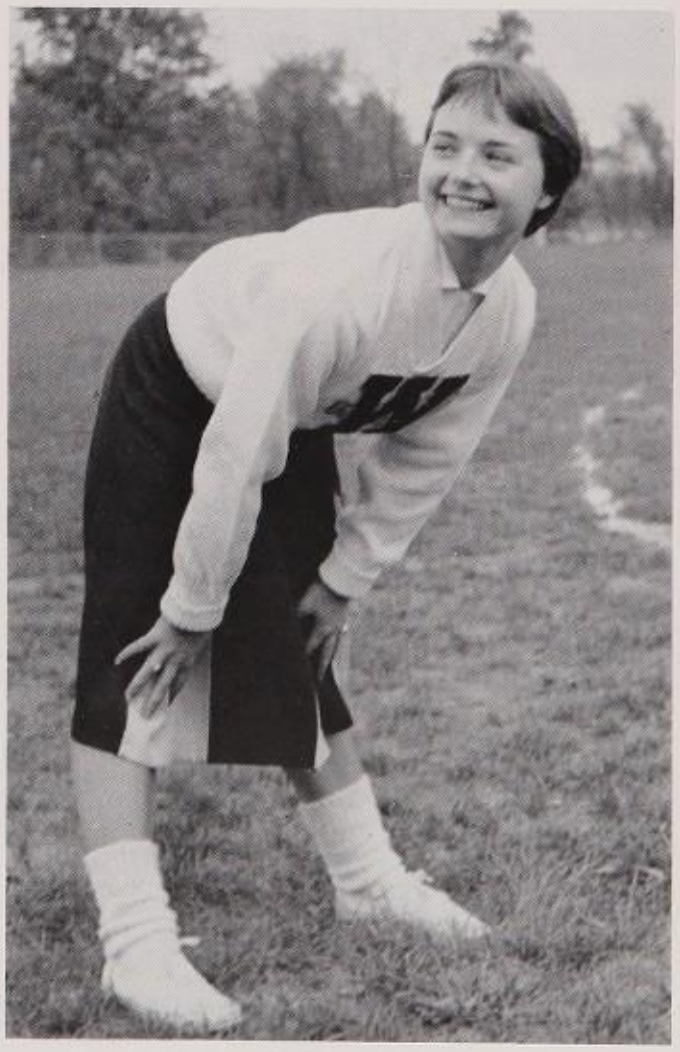
Led by drum major, Paul Gigley, West Hi's marching band presents our high stepping majorettes: Nikki Orlemann, Sandy Yates, Sue Geiringer, Marita Theilman, JoAnn Walters.

Ken Doan rides high on our magnificent Mustang mascot, which was the newest attraction of this year's football season.

Highspirited fans thrilled by extra attractions

Summer over, many ardent fans arrived for the first game of the football season. To the accompaniment of wild cheers, the first kick sailed through the air. Once again the football season was underway. Adding to the fan's thrills and delights this year was a handsome palomino proudly ridden by Ken Doan. The band contributed its stirring music and startling formation, saying good-bye to summer with "In the Good Old Summertime" and "Sailing, Sailing." Extra spirit was created by the cheerleaders who were on hand with many new cheers. Even though the team lost, the fans were pleased with their first game and headed homeward, dreaming of the coming season.

Here comes our cute, peppy mascot, Barb Keller, who represents Western Mustangs at the Pigskin Preview.

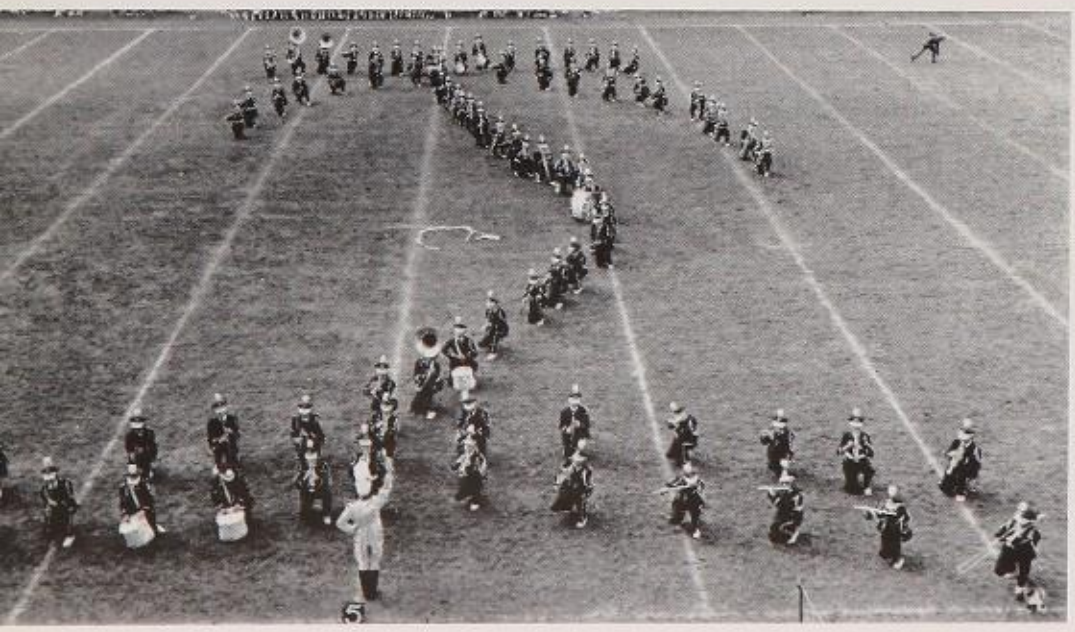


"Yea team!" is the cry of vivacious Barb Keller, head cheerleader, as she encourages school spirit

By forming the W. H. while the cheerleaders yell our traditional Western cheer, the band hails our alma mater. The halftime show is concluded by the majorettes whirling their batons over the goal posts.

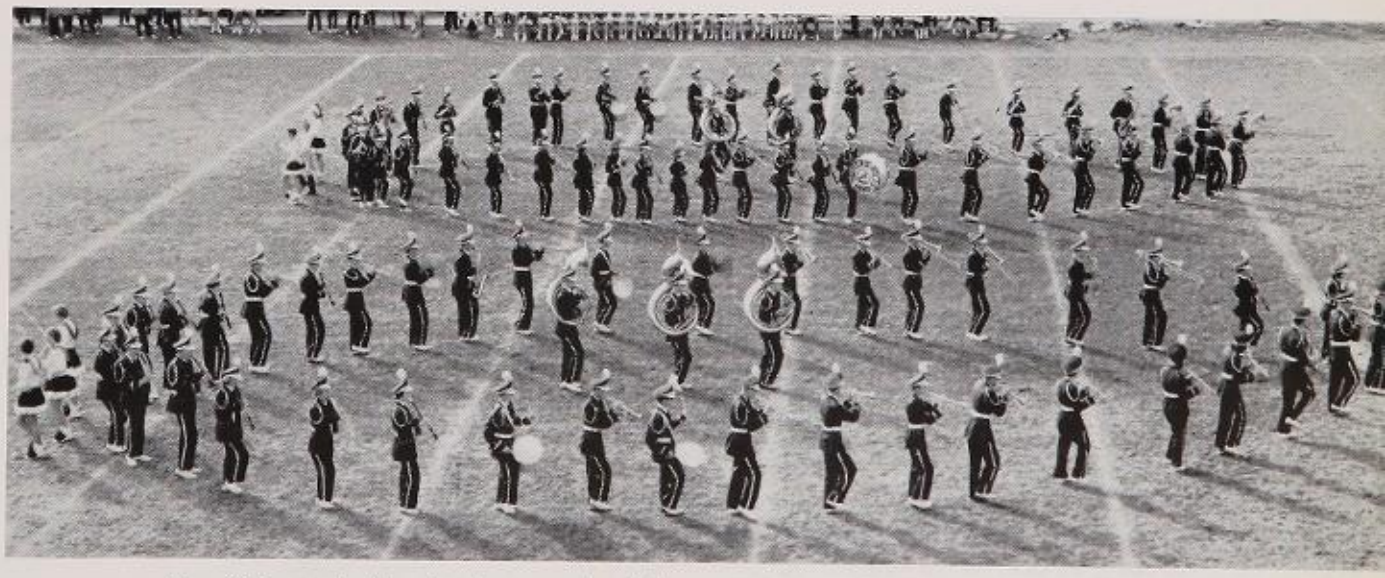
Gala band shows spark enthusiasm at football games

Our band salutes the state of Hawaii, by forming a swaying palm tree.



Late summer days mark the beginning of much hard work for West Hi's marching band. Under the capable direction of Mr. Brady, the band draws detailed plans for the formations that delight football fans, and then begins tedious hours of drill. Following the hours of planning and drilling there is a time of uneasiness and tension for the whole band. However, when the night of the show arrives and everything takes place as planned, the band members wonder why they worried. Hard work, drill, and planning are the key words to each band member. They are the words that bring first frowns of worry and then smiles of satisfaction to faces in the West Hi Marching Band.

Our high stepping drum major, Paul Gigley, struts the length of the field.



Hawaii is reached by boat, so our band forms two steamships to reach that exotic state.

Dutifully fulfilling their respective tasks are R. Stayin, president; M. Cave, vice-president; T. Roessler, secretary and J. Baker, treasurer.

Sorting and counting numerous ballots can be a long, tedious task, but co-chairmen John Frey and Lois Miller find it an enjoyable duty.

Student Council inspires self-government

Vigorous and hectic are the Student Council Election Campaigns each spring. Elaborate posters, small noisy bands, singing troubadours, and unique throw-outs fill the halls of West Hi. Newly elected officers plan for the coming year. Charitable projects are undertaken such as the donation of Thanksgiving baskets of food for underprivileged schools and the collection of blankets to send to Algerian refugees. By sponsoring the Victory dance and several canteens the Council instills school spirit in the minds of the students. Bake sales held during exams and the selling of Western Hills pennants are examples of money making projects used this year. After a successful year the Council feels they have met the challenge presented them.

Enthusiastic customers crowd the table in the hall where R. Lingardo and J. Wietholter work frantically to sell West Hi pennants and shakers.

"Project Blankets" was the key phrase at school during Student Council's campaign to help Algerian refugees.

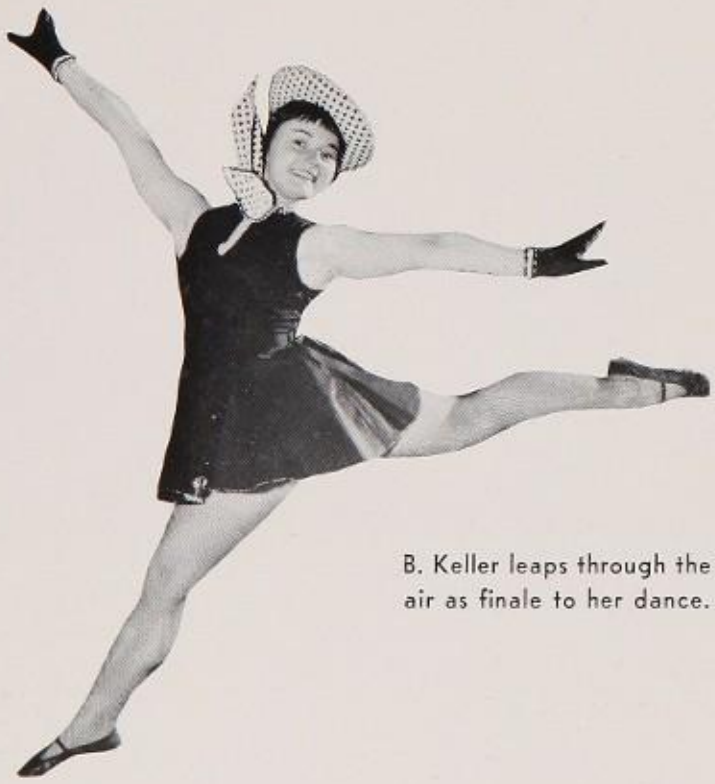
Opening an assembly presented by the safety committee, Glen Wollenhaupt introduced first speaker.

Anxious to begin dancing, eager students crowd the entrance to one of West Hi's popular canteens held after night games.

Barbara Walther, Jackie DeWeese and Sharry Annavedder vividly describe "Paris in the Spring" while their poodle listens attentively.

Music-Dancing-Comedy
Bandwagon 1960

The curtain rises, a note sounds, and the 1960 Western Hills Bandwagon, a product of months of planning and hard work, begins its exciting three night run. A salute to Paris, the city of romance, starts the show portraying the air of gay Paree in song and dance. The show then ventures into Toyland, where the delightful days of youth are revived. The grand finale of Good Ol'Fashioned School Days presents a spicy and amusing climax. The players have smoothed and polished their acts to give performances which elicit applause, laughter, and genuine appreciation from the pleased crowd. There may be a few slip-ups, but Bandwagon remains the same star-producing show because everyone does his part to make it a success.



B. Keller leaps through the air as finale to her dance.

The Doll Dance, depicted by M. Henderson, M. Whitney, D. Bruns, C. Reif and M. Raible, adds unique variety to the world of toys.

A graceful pirouette was a very impressive part of ballet solo performed by Patti Dann in the Toyland portion of Bandwagon.

Adding hilarity and humor to the adventurous School Days unit of Bandwagon, two unusually talented barnyard animals sing "The Chicken Song".

Diane thrills the audience with her gay soprano voice.

Lynda Langdon, sweetly sings "The Last Time I Saw Paris."

"Advance! Retreat! Charge!" Bandwagon pony chorus runs through its routine with vim and vigor. Chorus members: F. Daner, J. Elder, K. England, S. Fisher, M. Bicher, D. Lundin, J. Cottingham, J. Berning, J. Elder, P. Dann.

Mr. Brady, an untiring director, often finds time to compose his own music for Senior Orchestra.

Orchestra is rated superior

For the first time in the history of our school, the Senior Orchestra, under the able direction of Mr. Andrew J. Brady, received a rating of Superior, at the state orchestra contest. Only as a result of many hours of practice and hard work was this success of the orchestra possible. Orchestra members had scarcely recovered from the thrill of bringing home honors from Columbus when the coveted selections for Bandwagon Orchestra were made. During the school year, the student body had many opportunities to enjoy the brilliant playing of the orchestra at various assemblies. Highlighting a most successful year was a trip to Clarksville Indiana High School where our orchestra played late in May on an annual exchange basis.

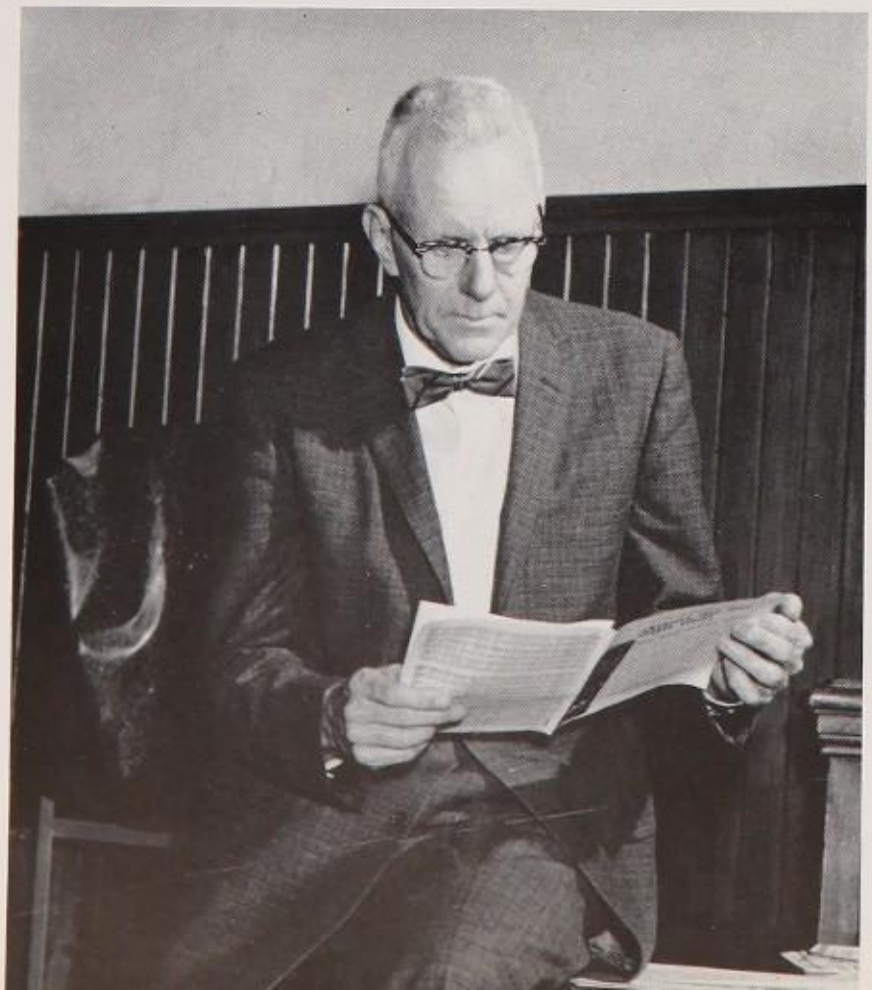
Choir gives inspirational performances this year

Selecting music for choir is one of Mr. Rim's time consuming jobs.



Throughout the year, one of West Hi's best known organizations, the senior choir, has contributed a great deal of beauty and enthusiasm to the students. Its members, whether blending their voices in inspiring religious music or harmonizing a popular tune, have made each assembly in which they have appeared a memorable event. The great occasion which they all look forward to is, of course, "Bandwagon". Endless hours of coaching and rehearsing under the direction of Mr. Rim are devoted to making the choir's part of the program a complete success. After "Bandwagon", the choir begins its final project of the year, music for graduation.

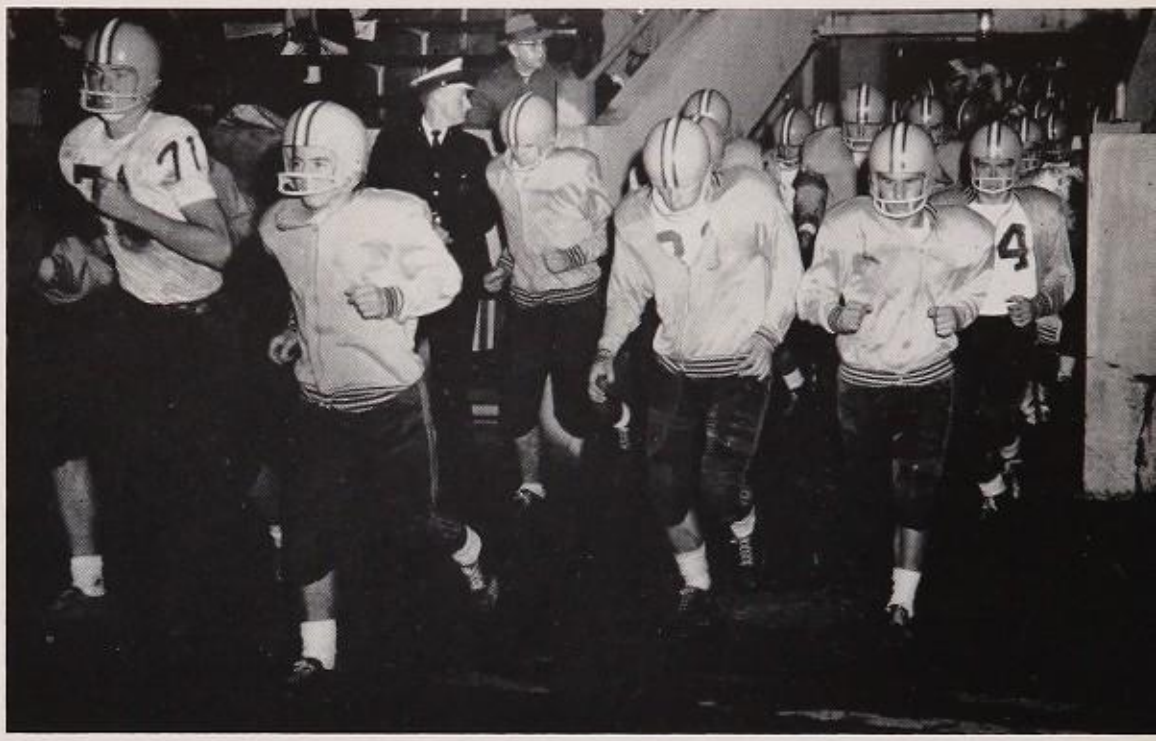
Bob Hendon discovers football is not entirely physical labor. He finds that the success of a team depends on the player's knowledge of plays.

There are many things that go into the making of a football player

One stiflingly hot day last August, forty eager West Hi gridders gathered at the call of Coach Bill Nead to begin the grueling routine of the football season. From that day, August 20, until November 26, they lived, ate, slept, and dreamt football. Establishing a code of togetherness, Coach Nead kept reiterating his favorite philosophy, "You have to pay the price." During the weeks remaining before the opening of school the boys learned football through movies, playing charts, and actual practice. After school opened, school work and football took up every minute of the players' time. They had to keep strict training rules; they had to take the losses with the wins, and face up to injuries as well as glory.

The team rests before going to the practice field as Mr. Nead discusses some of the key personnel and plays the Mustangs will face in the next game.

Mr. Hauck, on the phone, receives information from the press box which he files mentally, should the team need it to win.



After a quick pep talk from Coach Nead, the team comes on the field ready to meet their adversaries whom they are sure they will defeat.

After a particularly rough play the team members catch their breath while listening to the instructions for the next play from quarterback Tom Maddux.

A football player must learn to accept the injuries as well as the glory.

Mustangs click after a rough start

Co-captains Dick Powell, Jim Jones, and Jerry Streibig discuss some plays and possible strategies of their next opponents.

Though the 1959 football season started out poorly, steady improvement resulted in repeated victories for the hardworking team. Injuries to the quarterback and several linemen early in the season caused the team to bog down for a time. With determined grit, however, the Mustangs came back to round out a schedule of 6 losses and 4 wins.

WESTERN vs. HAMILTON GARFIELD – The Mustangs travelled upstate to meet an experienced Garfield squad. Our quarterback, Tom Maddux, was injured early in the game, but West Hi displayed a fine spirit by erasing a three touchdown lead. The Mustangs fell short 28-20.

WESTERN vs. BETHEL – West Hi met an undermanned Bethel team on their field. The Maroons creamed the Bethel squad 40-6.

WESTERN vs. CENTRAL – West Hi jumped off to a quick lead. However Central's backs outmaneuvered West Hi to give them a final 25-8 score.

WESTERN vs. DAYTON COLONEL WHITE – A poor showing in the first half led to a final victory for Dayton. The defense was not up to par, but the offensive punch was still there. Nevertheless, it was not strong enough to overcome Dayton's lead. Dayton won 38-20.

WESTERN vs. WOODWARD – Mustangs made too many errors in the game against the P.H.S.L. champs. Woodward was tough when it counted most. A late rally by West Hi brought the final score to 24-14.

WESTERN vs. TAFT

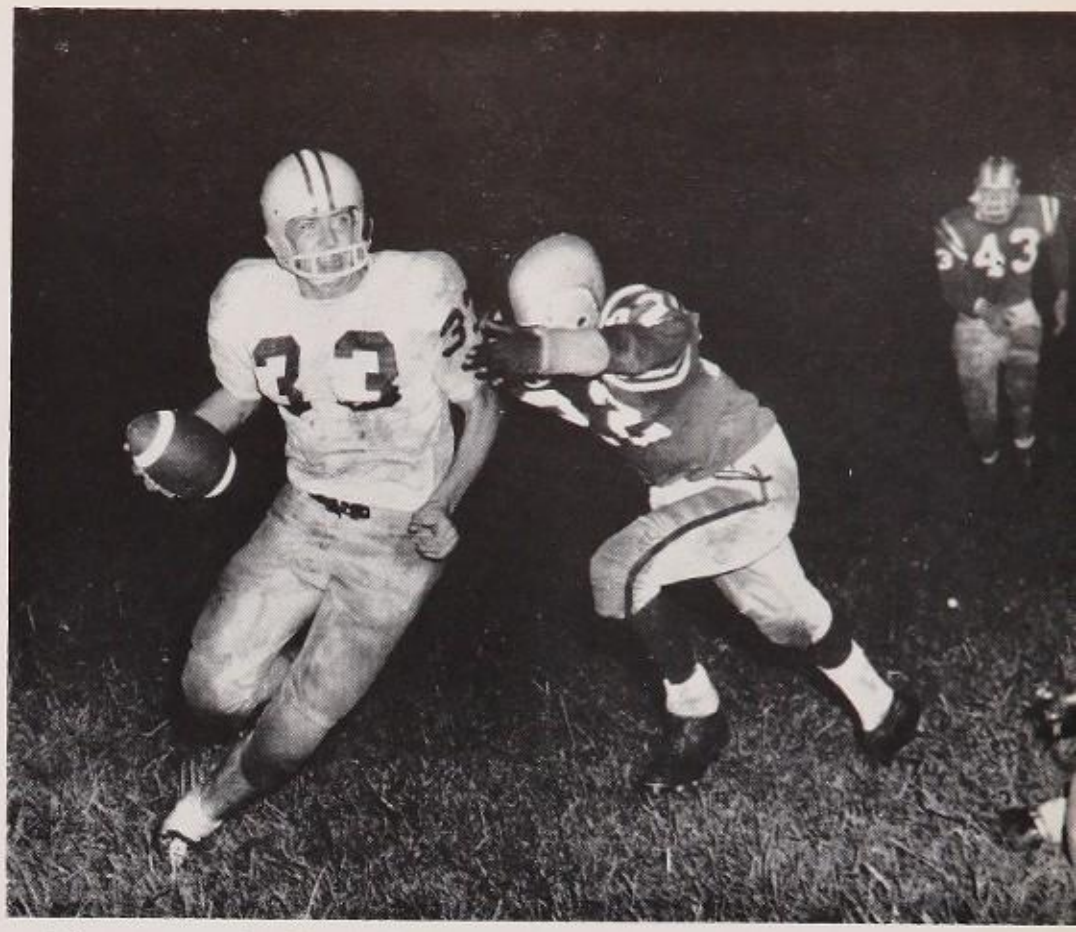
In a tough defensive battle Taft managed to cross the goal line once. Both teams were bothered by the muddy condition of the field, but West Hi couldn't keep a sustained drive going. Taft won 8-0.

WESTERN vs. HUGHES

The hard work finally paid off. West High avenged last year's loss against a speedy Hughes team. Behind the strong running of Streibig, Bibent, and Maddux the Mustangs got a lead which the defense preserved. When the final gun went off, the score board showed West High on top 14-6.

WESTERN vs. WITHROW

The Tigers were no match for West High's superiority in offense as well as defense. While the stout defense held Withrow to a total of 16 yards, the offense clicked with 5 touchdowns. The final score was 34-0.

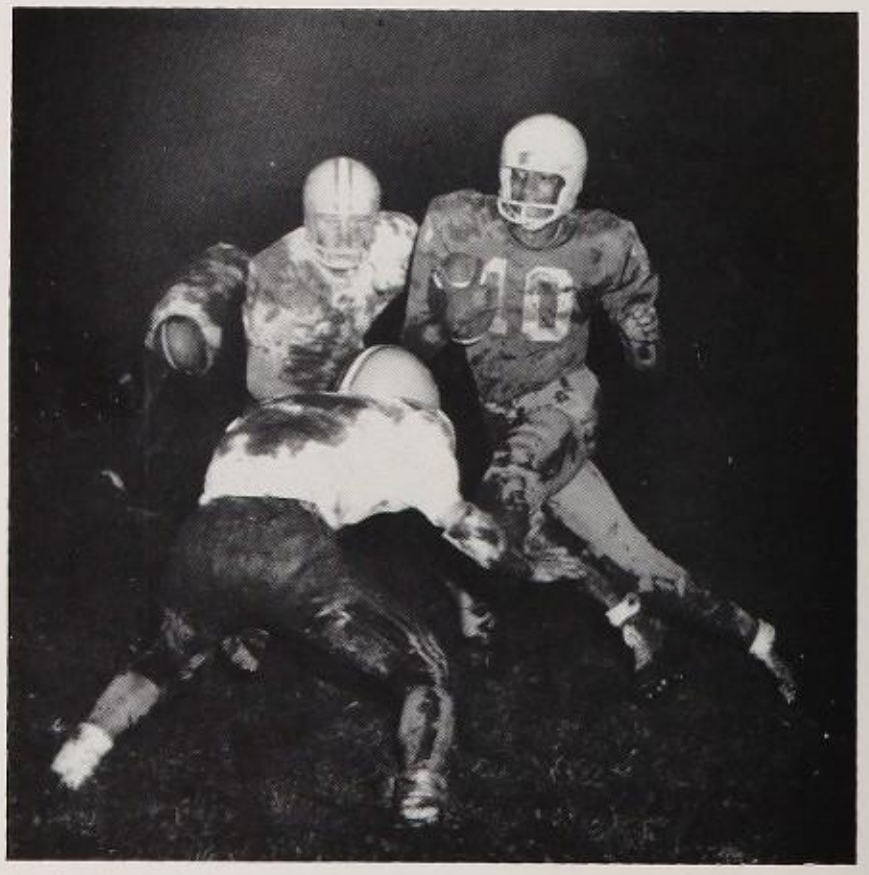


Bibent strenuously eludes a Central tackler as he goes around end to pick up needed yardage for the faltering Mustang offense.

Fullback Joe Determan breaks through the Central line into the open and scores West High's first and only touchdown in the game.

Every yard counts. Hard-running back Jerry Streibig breaks into the open, picking up yardage against Dayton Colonel White. Determan throws block which springs Streibig loose for the first down. Supporting the Mustang cause by pursuing Dayton tacklers are Lineman Landers, Patton, Shiff, Riley.

Fast action thrills crowd



Linebacker Rudy Lingardo tensely awaits the fancy running Taft quarterback as he sweeps end. Snider makes sure the Senator goes down.

Stu Schott edges out the Withrow player as he recovers the fumble for the Mustangs.

Pat Riley, all-city end, was named the outstanding Maroon player of the Elder game.

Again halfback Determan rams the center of Elder's fierce defensive line, only to be met and dropped for a loss by the savage Panther Team.

WESTERN vs. ELDER

Another capacity crowd of 10,000 filled Elder stadium on this Thanksgiving Day. Both teams were prepared for a rough game and spirits were high. The first half ended in a scoreless tie as the defenses on both teams held the show. In the second half, Elder managed to batter their way over West High's goal line defense for two scores. Elder's superb defense held West High in check through the whole game. Many players stood out even in the face of defeat. Elder was satisfied in this thirty-first Turkey Day game to win a hard-earned victory over the fighting Mustangs, 12-0.

Pat Riley, West Hi end, attempts to take out Elder's 29 as halfback Walt Harmon rushes around end in a final attempt to salvage the game.

Inexperience deters reserve squad

The reserve squad often starts its season with inexperienced players. This year was no exception. After getting off to a bad start, the team recovered during the latter part of the season because of the desire built up in the long hours of hard work. The team won one game during the season but was beaten only two points by the league champs. Outstanding players were Vogel, Pujman, Rothenbusch, Werner, and Huckleberry.

Through the leaves of autumn, the members of the cross-country team race to condition themselves for coming winter and spring sports.

Cross-Country

In order to compete in the cross-country meets at Avon Fields, the team goes through a strenuous training program, day in and day out, good weather and bad. The grueling practice this year, however, paid off. Out of twenty teams in the district competition, West Hi finished sixth. In the public high school league, the boys took fifth place, thus completing a successful season. The outstanding runners were Osterfeld, Wickman, Yearout, and Gigley. Coach Hafenbritle says the team has a promising future.

West Hi Gymnasts take third in P.H.S.L.

The Mustang matmen totaled a final third place in the P.H.S.L. with captain Bob Buchenburger, Tom Moore, and Jerry Brockhoff leading the team. These three won consistently, but the team lacked depth. Bob Buchenburger took first place in the rope climb. Jerry Brockhoff won second place in tumbling. Tom Moore stole first place on the horizontal bar and third place in the all-round exercise. Besides the honor of placing third in the city, the team always looked good and made good impressions for West Hi.

Since there are many seniors graduating from the squad, there will be an opportunity for new members next year. Coach Nohr would like to invite any boy who is interested in building himself up to come out for the team next year. Many outstanding benefits, both physical and competitive, may be derived from becoming a member of the West Hi gym team.

Basketball squad captures district title

The Mustang Basketball team experienced one of the greatest years in the history of the school. A couple of early losses prevented the squad from gaining a share of Central's P.S.H.L. crown. In high spirits Western came alive, after a slow start, to finish the year with a very respectable 13-5 record. Behind a powerful offense and a scrappy defense, the team rang up victories almost unnoticed until they moved into a contending league position. Revenging earlier defeats experienced at the hands of Woodward and Withrow, they rolled on to two victories apiece over Taft, Hughes, and Walnut Hills, boosting themselves into second place. A final win over Hughes clinched runner-up honors. The following night the Mustang quintet climaxed regular play with a sudden-death double overtime game with arch-rival, Elder. Ed Brinkman, who rallied the team to victory, sank a one-hander for the 59-57 win, a fitting climax for the season.

Tournament play is tense, exciting, vigorous—sad

For the first time in the history of the school, the Western Hills Mustangs, backed by fine school spirit, captured the District Tournament Championship. The Mustangs entered the tournament seeded third but gathered momentum by disposing of Northeastern and Walnut Hills. With confidence they met and eliminated Woodward and Withrow, advancing to the finals with Roger Bacon. There they smothered the Spartans 69-49. They began regional play the following week at the Cincinnati gardens by capturing a weak victory over an unknown Urbana team, entering the finals against the state's top rated Dayton Roosevelt. The Mustang squad, although 25 point underdogs, battled down to the wire before falling 66-58 to the team which later took the state championship. The tension climaxed in the closing minutes when Western tied the score, but the Teddies won in a burst of power, leaving Western "one of the eight best teams in the state."

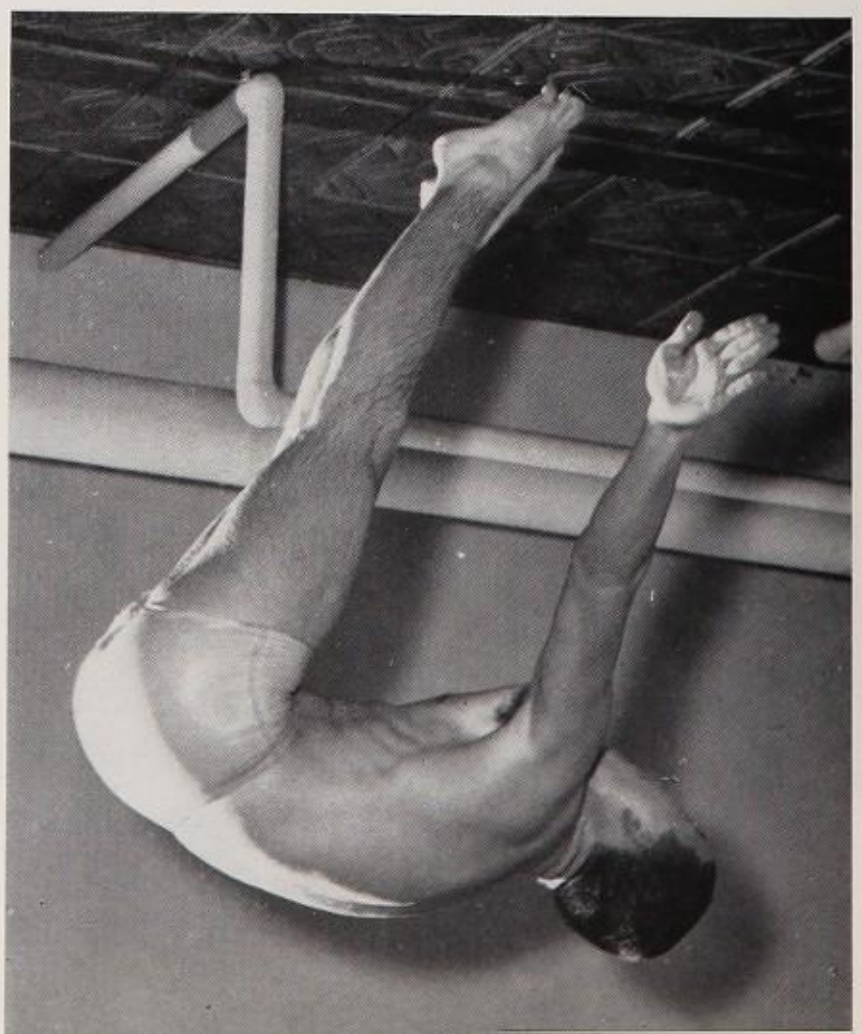
Tankers prove strong

Hard work and the desire to win enabled our swimming team to finish a rough season successfully. Because of the loss of several first place men through graduation last year, this year's team faced unusually difficult circumstances. Steady improvement was necessary to insure victory for the Mustangs. Another strike against the team was the loss of coach Heinold in the second month of practice because of illness. But determination that Coach Heinold instilled in his team did not leave with him. The captain, Phil Meng, coached the team, receiving instructions for each day's workout from Mr. Heinold by phone. Through constant improvement by each individual the team took shape. In P.H.S.L. competition, the team took third. The diving trio of Stayin, Cox, and Fabing placed second, third, and fourth respectively. Phil Meng took second place in the backstroke and first in the individual medley. Al Gaskill and Larry Smith placed second and third in the butterfly event. Steve McNamee and Roland Muhle stole fourth and fifth spots in the breaststroke. Third place in the city wasn't enough for the enthusiastic swimmers. Celebrating the successful recovery of Coach Heinold, the team made a grandstand performance in the district meet and won the district runner-up trophy with a fine performance.

Hardworking Steve McNamee wears gloves on his hands and weights around his ankles during practice. Similar encumbrances add power and endurance to all of the members of the Western Hills swimming team.



Jay Fabing, one of the outstanding divers in the city, believes in "practice makes perfect." This accounts for his excellent form in this full gainer pike.

Natural talent and hours of hard work contribute to Larry Smith's stamina and endurance in the grueling hundred yard butterfly event.

Tennis Team works hard

Under the supervision of Coach Otten, the Mustang tennis team enjoyed a rewarding season. Experience gained in last year's competition and in the Public Recreation Commission's Summer Tennis League proved to be very helpful. The Varsity squad, consisting of returning lettermen Jeff Spragens, Ron Marksity, Arden Wander, Bill Petrick, Loren Warburg, Don Huber, and Dave Ulrich, showed improved form and power. A new feature in the West Hi tennis program was the addition of a reserve team which participated in the interscholastic program throughout the city.

Golf Team successful

Fore was a familiar cry as the Western Hills golf team drove and putted its way through a successful year. Coached by Mr. Love, the team included Greg Boren, Jim Hyde, Tom Ulrich, Steve Spreen, Steve McNamee, Kurt Larsen, and Bill Bunger and made a good showing even though handicapped by a lack of practice facilities and experienced players. By participating in high school golf, the boys on our team developed a hobby for future enjoyment. They learned the rules and etiquette of the game, respect for a golf course, and how to play under pressure and for enjoyment.

Accuracy and timing are essential to a pitcher. This device is set up in the gym during the cold spring months to help develop these skills.

West High Nine looks for a good season

In spite of the hazards of spring rains and spring snows West Hi's baseball team is exceptionally strong and seems to be headed in the direction of success. The pitching staff this year is led by Ed Brinkman, who has been called one of the four top players in the city and one of the best in the history of West Hi. Reinforcing the staff are returned lettermen Lenny Stahl and Wayne Lundy. Adding to the potency of the staff are two highly promising sophomores, Jim Hardy and Dave McElroy. This year's squad has excellent speed and power. The team has a tough season of twenty-three games of which they have won the first four, giving them thus far for the season a 4-0 record. Mr. Nohr hopes this full season will prepare his team for the May tournament. In the past Western Hills has always turned out excellent squads along with many outstanding players that have reached the heights of major league baseball. These stars include Art Mahaffey, Russ Nixon, Dick Groat, Herm Wehmeier, and Don Zimmer, as well as many minor league players.

West Hi's pitching staff demonstrates the form for which they have received much acclaim. Leading the staff is Eddie Brinkman, one of the best hurlers in this area.

Tom Moore tenses as he starts his approach to the bar. Great skill, coordination, and courage are needed to attempt the 10 foot vault.

Cindermen enjoy honor and satisfaction

Track is primarily an individual challenge, but it takes team support and spirit to produce a winner. West Hi's track team this year got off to a good start in their first meet by scoring 94 points to capture a triangular meet with Mariemont and Oak Hills. Aided by seven returning lettermen and new spirited ability, the Mustangs were a definite P.H.S.L. contender. Western was strong in the hurdles, distance, and other field events. There were, however, weaknesses — notably in dashes and weights, but Coach Richard Bathiany remarked that with a little extra desire the Mustang squad could surprise their rivals with their power and drive.

Coach Bathiany gives instructions to miler Dennis Osterfeld on the proper form and technique for quicker starts.

School spirit flourishes in Maroon W

Under the guidance of Mr. Bill Nead and the outstanding leadership of Steve McNamee, Maroon W enjoyed a successful year. The members started the year by selling bumper stickers to promote school spirit. Continuing their drive for school spirit, Maroon W sponsored a canteen after a football game. The annual "Dream of Maroon and Cream" dance proved successful with Myrna Snodgrass reigning queen. The year was concluded with the lettermen's annual picnic at which the 1960-61 officers were announced. Not only have the members enjoyed their projects and activities, but they have developed school spirit and over all enthusiasm.

The Maroon W officers — president Steve McNamee, veeps Laster and Buchenburger, and sgt.-at-arms Gilbert Snider — had a successful year.

Outdoor Education Club develops future hobbies

Enthusiasm was the only requisite for membership in the outdoor Education Club as it ended its second year at West Hi. There was no fee or cost and equipment was furnished to those who had none. The members, from grades 7-12, learned that the out-of-doors can be used for recreation and fun. Under the guidance of Mr. Siekmann and their president, Bill Schroeder, the boys spent two meetings a month living the outdoor life — fishing, camping, hunting, boating, and water skiing — developing maturity and sportsmanship.

Girly-whirly athletes

Sr. G.A.A. managers of 1960 are a vital part of the organization. The managers with representations of their sport include Betty McNett, hiking; Myrna Snodgrass, basketball; Bev Highfill, badminton; Carolyn York, baseball; Gail Lenhoff, hockey; Judy Haag, tennis; Ellie Sattler, swimming; Pat Ryan, volleyball; Lois Miller, archery; Jean Abel, bowling; Charlotte Helmbold, umpires; Judy Diers, bowling; Elaine Dimitry, swimming; Judy Oettinger, pingpong; Lynn Knabe, golf. Each of these girls excelled in her particular sport and helped to make this G.A.A. year one of the best.

The G.A.A. leaders perk with enthusiasm

If one were to look in on a typical scene in the girls' gym on a G.A.A. night, he would see much hustle, bustle, and a lot of confusion. Yet from this confusion emerges contented girls with fond memories of G.A.A. The gay membership party started the year off. Here the girls were enlightened on the purpose of G.A.A., to learn the love of sports and the true meaning of sportsmanship. This year the success of G.A.A. was attributed to the helpful supervision of Miss Witte, Mrs. Cook, Miss Young, the G.A.A. officers, and board. Along with a year of sports there were many money making projects. These included the apple sales, the annual Mr. Western Hills Dance, and the programs sold at the West Hi-Elder game. As the year drew to an end, plans were made for the banquet where the new board members were announced and another G.A.A. year came to a close.

Our Senior G.A.A. officers, B. Keller, C. Forster, N. Heisel, and B. Brueggemann, reflect the spirit of Christmas during an informal meeting.

Diane Bruestle and Judy Heidrich, G.A.A. officers, discuss with Miss Witte, Mrs. Cook, and Miss Young the G.A.A. athletic awards.

The G.A.A. chairmen hold an informal meeting to make favors for the Annual Spring Banquet and to do some gossiping.

A very frantic, exciting hockey game is reflected by the tense faces of D. Glenn, J. Clift, C. Vulcheff, B. Bizzarri, B. Zeigler, and M. Rupprecht.

You can be sure J. Dietrich and J. Beard will plan some clever strategy for an upcoming hockey game.

A stick in time and a girl gets a goal

Sticks and balls, and the umpire calls, bumps and sores, and bruises galore—that could only be hockey. From September to November hockey reigns as chief sport on the G.A.A. calendar. Just like the mailmen, neither rain, nor snow, nor mud, nor gloom of darkness, can keep the girls from the completion of their tasks. This year's advanced hockey season was climaxed by a trip to Indian Hill. The varsity team suffered a 7-0 setback while the reserves salvaged a 1-0 victory. Despite defeat, the fun and excitement made the day worthwhile. The season ended with the hockey supper and the announcement of the new manager.

Starting the game with the traditional bully, Julia Alling and Louise Miller look as if they can deal with any situation that might arise.

Dribble, shift, shoot—get those points

"Come on team, let's go!" is the familiar cry which resounds through the girl's gym as Senior G.A.A. girls start another exhilarating season of basketball. Although they may not be as good as the "Big O" or Ralph Davis, one can be sure to see some fancy shots and some unique dribbling. From January to March, girls readily report to the gym for another exciting session of intra-mural playoffs. By the end of February, the winning teams remain. They battle it out to the finish. In order to find the All-Americans, playoffs between the 10th, 11th, and 12th grade teams are held. The season is brought to a successful close by the traditional playday. Girls are carefully chosen by the instructors to compete with girls from many other public high schools.

Speed, accuracy, and skill help to make Myrna one of our most valuable Advanced Basketball players.

Whack, yea!
It's a homer!

Joyous cries from the G.A.A. baseball fields tell that spring has hit Western Hills. From April until June, on Thursday and Friday afternoons, girls gather to engage in healthful intra-mural competition. As the girls progress, they may try out for the advanced team, which plays teams from other schools. Then, near the end of the season, a playday is held. Various teams composed of capable girls are chosen by Miss Young, the baseball adviser. An honor team is chosen at the end of the season.

Despite the snow, these G.A.A. girls shall play baseball.

Disrobing in the water is one of the tests girls take to pass life saving. J. Heisel, in the pool, talks to P. Ebel, M. Rupprecht, and J. Wick.

Splash, stroke! She's off to the rescue!

The swimming activities of 1960 were well supported by West High mermaids. With hopes of advancing to the next color cap, girls spent many hours perfecting their form and strokes. Many of the girls increased their knowledge of water safety with a course in senior life saving. They attempted to master various holds, carries, approaches, and the latest form of resuscitation. To end the swimming year, the girls could be seen practicing for the water show, which was presented at the spring carnival.

Ellie Sattler and Elaine Dimitry, life saving corps members, demonstrate the proper procedure of water safety to Nancy Heisel and Jane Meyers.

Lynn Fletcher and Judy Casto practice the mouth to mouth form of resuscitation on victims Janet Bateman and Sue Burton.

During an action packed game D. Haymes returns the ball to N. Cheshire; P. Ryan, J. Anderson, and J. Hoog are anxiously awaiting its arrival.

Hit, spike, hike and get those points too

Over the hill and through the woods, the hiking girls of G.A.A. set off to the neighboring parks. This autumn under their leader, Betty McNett, they undertook a series of jaunts through the countryside and city. Through the rigors of hiking, the girls conditioned themselves for the invigorating sport of volleyball during the winter sports season. With skill and sportsmanship, the girls, under manager, Pat Ryan, ran up the victories in their two playdays at Central and Western Hills. In both hiking and volleyball the G.A.A. members experienced the joys of fun and fellowship.

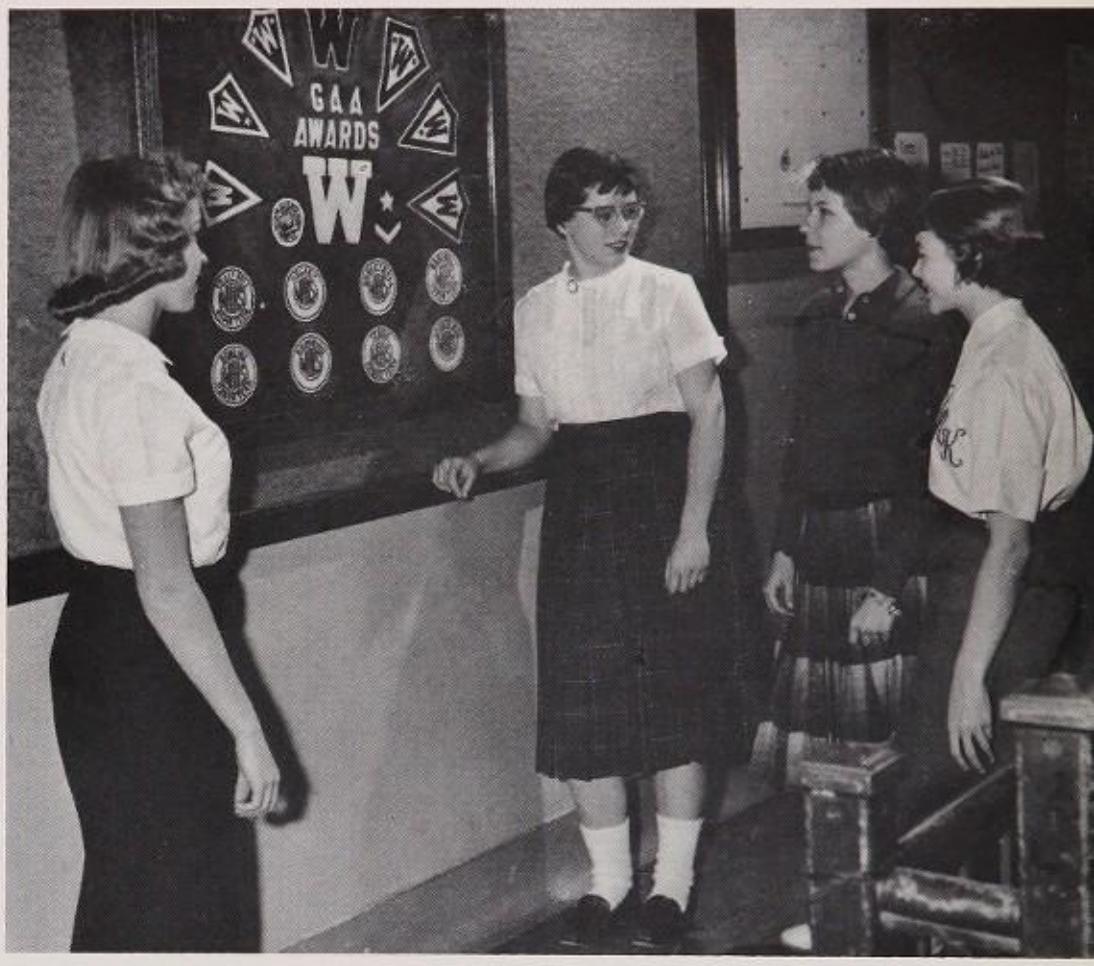
According to the beaming faces of J. Maschmeyer, M. Snodgrass, N. Kiewit, and P. Havely, it looks as if the outcome may have been good.

Ready for a gay afternoon hike to Rapid Run Park, G.A.A. members impatiently chide Betty Jo for holding up progress on a chilly day.

Standing proudly are the Junior G.A.A. officers — Dolores Seyferth, Lynn Kaemmerle, Donna Stayin, Sandy Browning and Jean Ann Smith.

G.A.A.—award to earn

Under the expert guidance of Miss Young, Jr. G.A.A. carried out a program which helped the girls mentally as well as physically. Candy was sold in order to make money to buy the awards which many of the girls had earned during a year enriched with fun and sports competition.

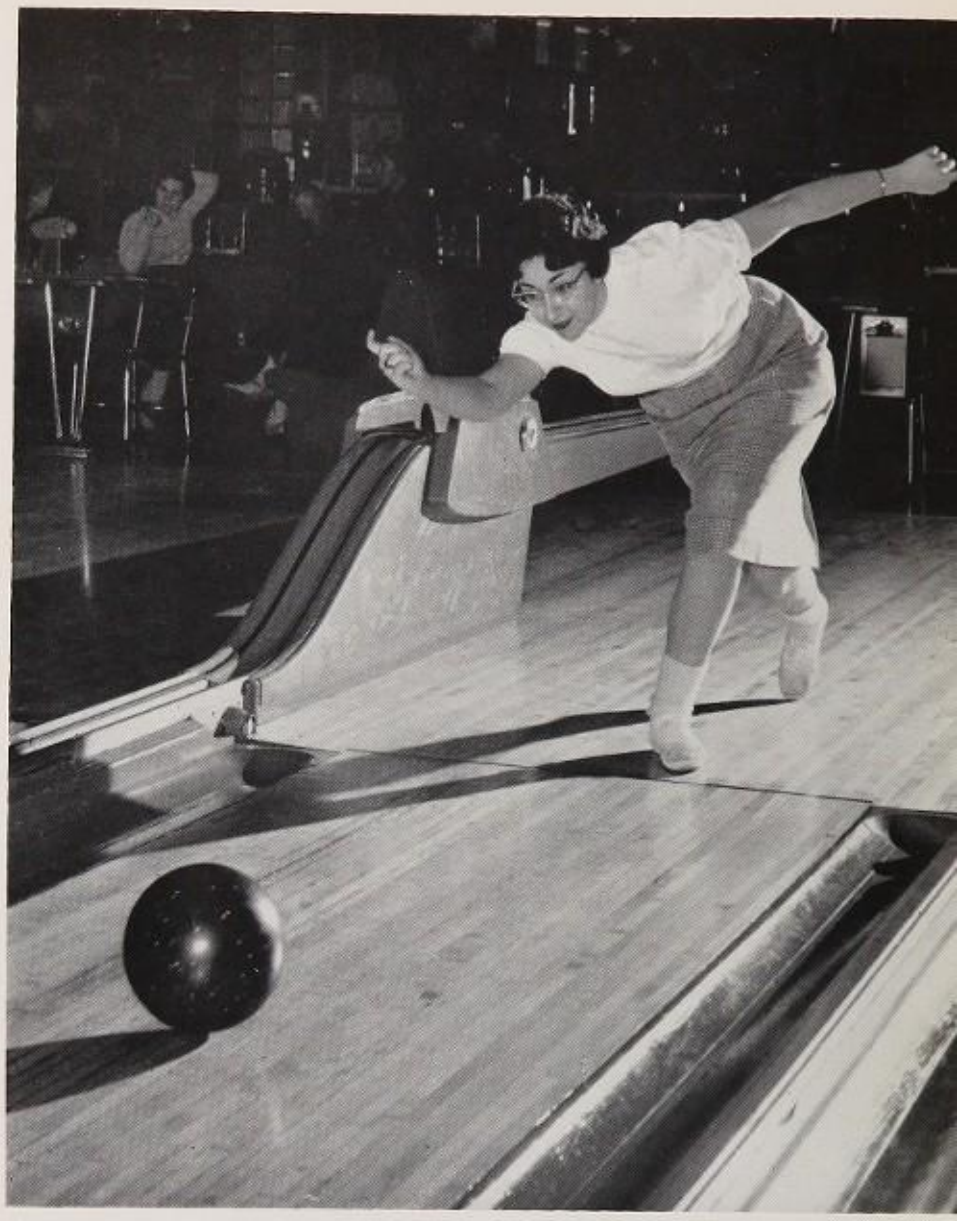


Judy Hoog and Nancy Kiewit show June Forster and Trudy Kolb the awards they can earn by participating in the various G.A.A. sports.

Come on girls, 17, 18, 19, let's do more pull-ups. Sue Gittinger, Linda Knosp, Joan Lucatz, Pat Abel and Ann Bellem strain for number 20.

Enthusiasm, skill and fun equal bowling

Bowling, ping pong, and badminton rank high with girls at Western Hills. Every Friday, they flock to the Cheviot Lanes to participate in friendly bowling competition. Whether a girl scores a 70 or a 170, she has fun and enjoys the fellowship of other girls. Ping pong and badminton also are quite popular with the West Hi girls. Both of the tournaments this year were rewarding as well as exciting, for the victors received awards at the Annual G.A.A. Banquet. At the closing of these seasons, there remained a spirit of goodwill and anticipation for the coming year of G.A.A. sports.

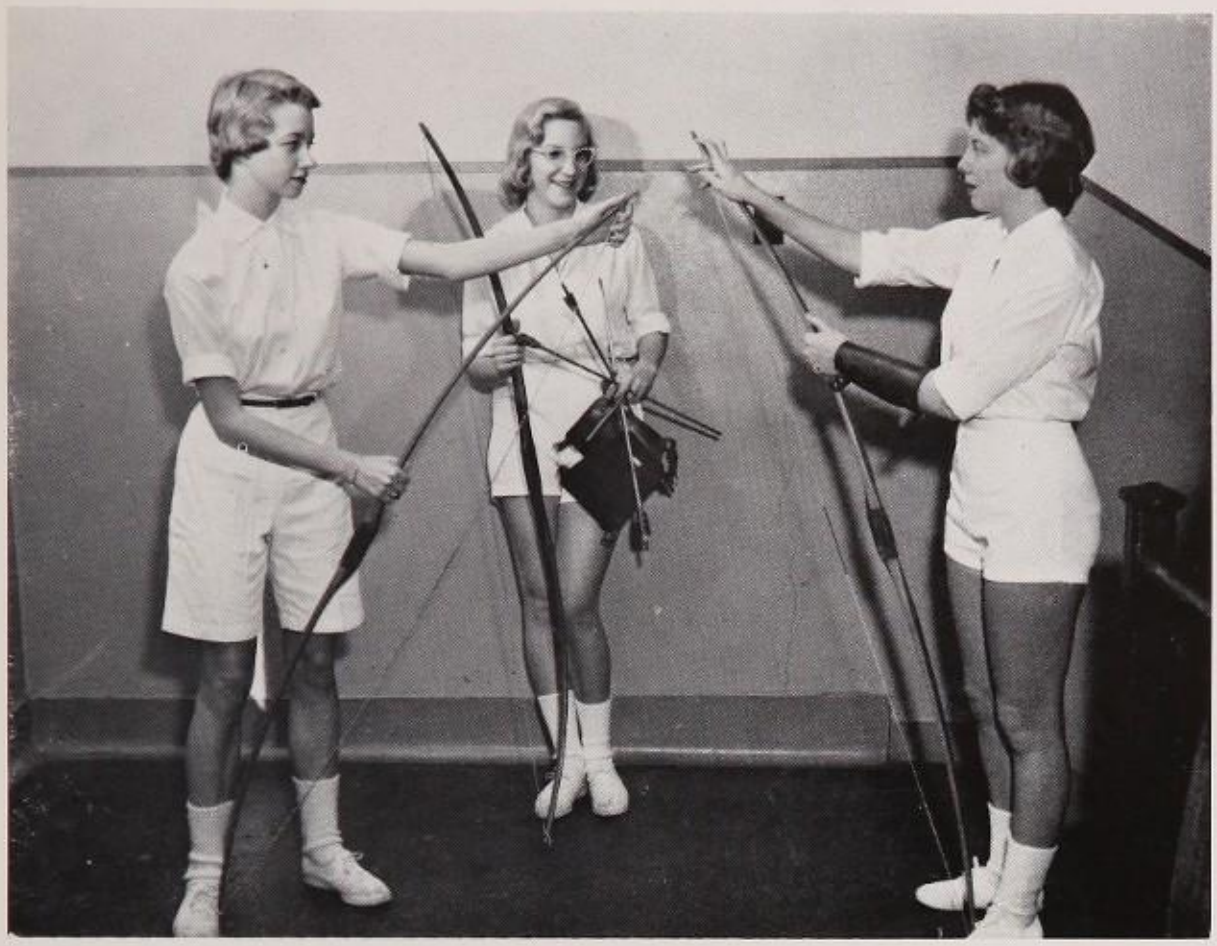


The satisfaction of bowling is reflected in Harriet Pale's radiant face.

Recollecting memories of the past season are managers B. Highfill and J. Oettinger, D. Farison, J. Dietrich, and L. Eckert join the gaiety.

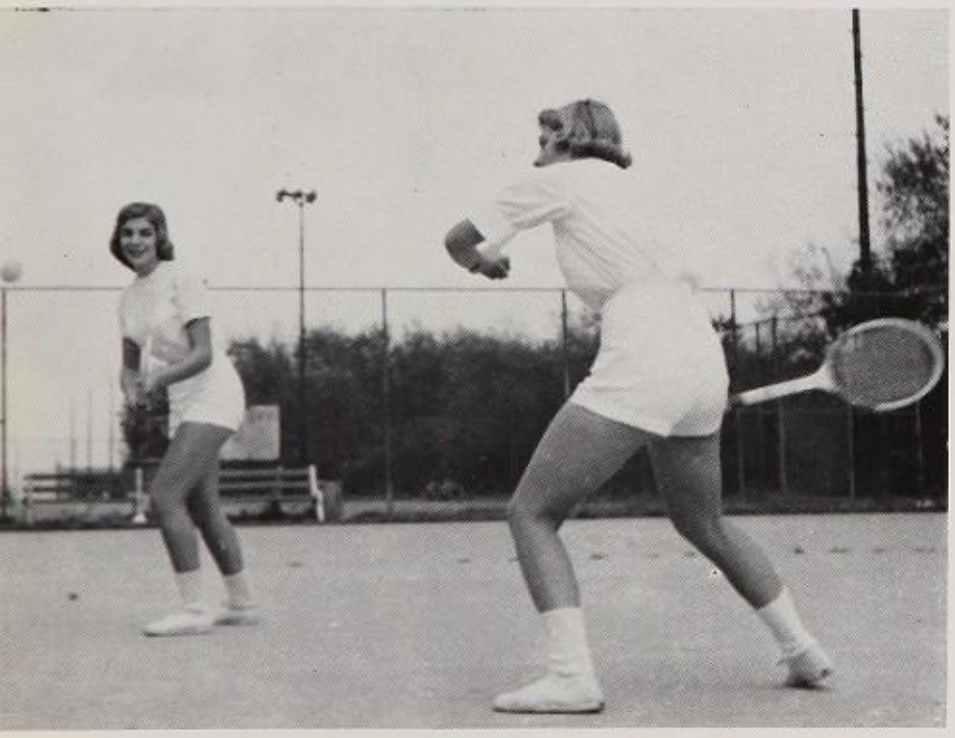
Talking seems as important as selecting their balls to J. Diers, J. Taylor, D. Dalbert, J. Abel, C. Vulcheff, and G. Koking.

Outdoor sports are invigorating



Lois Miller, Gail Simpkin, Judy Casto, and Kathy Koop, discussing the skills involved in hitting a bulls-eye, string their bows in preparation for many days of archery. These busy girls practice to perfect their accuracy in shooting.

Although golf is a relatively young sport here at Western Hills, it is proving to be quite popular with the G.A.A. girls. There is always a good turnout when the season opens and there are many fond, sweet remembrances at the close.



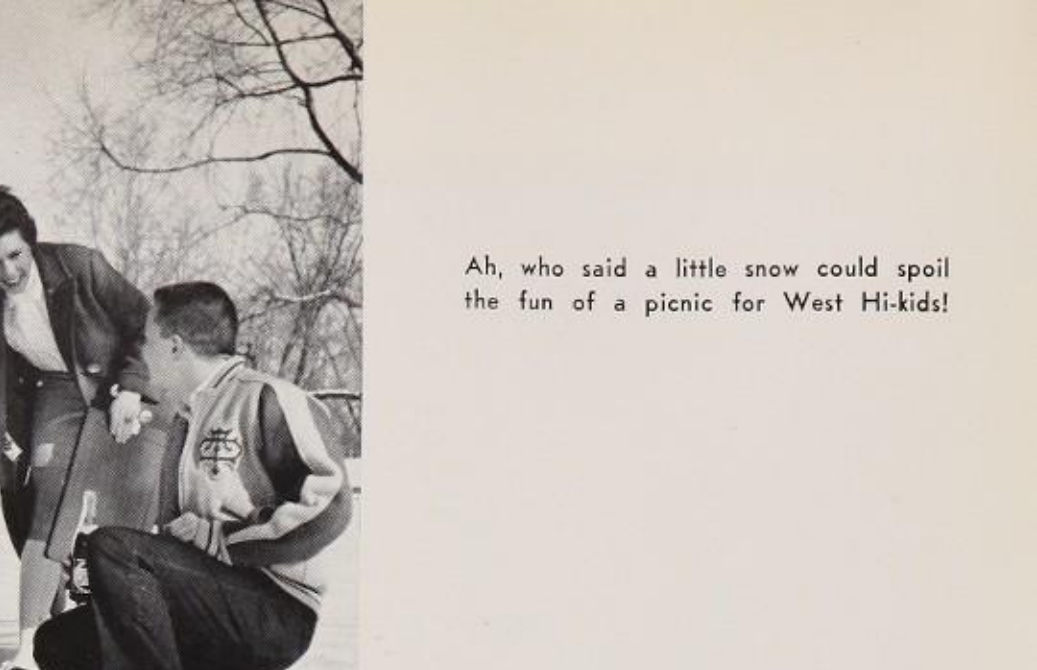
Displaying the easy grace and excellent form which help them to win their tennis matches this year are Marita Theilman and Judy Haag.

Jean Eggers, Lynn Knabe, and Diana Robbins check the condition of their irons before leaving for the driving range to sharpen their golfing skill which may have been impaired by the winter months.

Ah, who said a little snow could spoil the fun of a picnic for West Hi-kids!

The Challenge of Organizations

Tasty food, noisy fun, and good fellowship go hand in hand.



A top level discussion on the intricate mechanisms of the automobile engine and parts interests Auto Club Members.

But girls, you'll only be gone a week. No matter. Boxes, bundles, pillows all add to the fun enjoyed by sorority girls during a week at Chautauqua.

the Challenge to Participate

The music must have been dreamy. At least Cecelia and Phil enjoyed it a lot. Was the punch good too, Barb?

Pidel Seniors discuss their future after attending church. They are B. Bizzarri, C. Helle, M. Mangan, B. Brueggemann, C. Forster, C. York, H. Lepple, K. Ott, M. Bauer, S. Gieringer, D. Hartig, C. Siler, E. Sattler, and B. Keller.

Pidel juniors glancing at old annuals are Beatty, Halker, Anderson, Berius, Heisel, Koop, Weiss, Brodbeck, Simmonds, Gibbons and Eckert.

PI DELTA PHI is active

Each Pidel member participates enthusiastically in many activities. During the year she attends a wide variety of teas and dances and parties. She attends rush teas, a Christmas formal, a hobo party, and square dances. However, for her the most important social event is the annual outing at Chautauqua. The typical member does not spend her time in fun alone. She helps with money-making projects for charity, also. She helps with a paper-drive and card parties. Each year she, her sorority sisters, and the C.O.S. members hold a welfare party for Guilford School. Through these many activities she strengthens her character and makes many lasting friendships.

"Paddles finished yet?" Come on Sophomores let's get busy and finish them all. These eager beavers are Bizzarri, Casto, Eyrich, Grimmitt, Berning, Gambrel, Reuger, Hollingsworth, Becker, Lundin, Shinkle, Miller, Simmonds, Cottingham, Schiff, Schaal, and Lohmeier.

Glen Wollenhaupt presents the gavel to the next president, Dan Beechuck, as the seniors watch. They are D. Wagner, D. Staubitz, D. Stewart, B. Hendon, R. Stayin, D. Beechuck, G. Wollenhaupt, J. Russell, D. Rief, J. Brockhoff, S. McNamee, E. Schroer.

CHI OMEGA SIGMA enjoys many good times

The conclusion of 1960 held pleasant memories for the members of C.O.S. Fraternity. Because of the willingness of each member all the social events were successful. The highlights of the year were the City-Wide Sweetheart Dance, the C.O.S.-Pidel Easter Party for the underprivileged children at Guilford School, the basketball game with T.O. for the benefit of Muscular Dystrophy, and the annual outing.

The activities of the members of Chi Omega Sigma differ considerably. Many of the boys are in the band, some in sports, and others in Student Council.

C.O.S. Seniors.

Sub Deb seniors enjoy a songfest accompanied by Hedy Fischbach. They are M. Cave, H. Fischbach, M. Pons, L. Knabe, J. Oettinger, J. Ankenbauer, B. McNett, D. Sparks, S. Mayleben, L. Kellerman, P. Knosp, M. Calder, J. Ireland, C. Schneider, D. Klahm, and B. Highfill.

Sub Deb sophomores enjoying a day of exciting horseback riding at Heidrich's are Robinette, Lukatz, Lowther, Bellem, Knosp, Hale, Gittinger, Heidrich, Loescher, Prine, and Sparks.

SUB DEB CLUB creates friendship

Sub Deb girls busy? You bet! The girls of Sub Deb are lively girls whose energies go in all directions.

Up and down the Ohio River on a May night one might see and hear a river boat filled with excited couples. The big event of course, was Sub Deb's annual May Banquet, which was followed by a night of gala dancing. The Ohio River was also the site of Sub Deb's November rush party where everyone enjoyed old-fashioned Southern entertainment on "The Showboat." Other activities included a turn about dance, card party, birthday banquet, and the unforgettable outing at the end of the season. Yes, the Sub Deb girls had a year to remember.

Sub Deb Juniors were very happy as they left the acceptance tea. They are Meador, Myers, Ramsey, Yates, Jennings, Walther, Elder, Leicht, Uecke, Rae, Cahall, Wilson, Annavedder, Werner, Fletcher, Wick, Elder, and Smith.

P. D. S. seniors and officers: J. Miller, D. Hay, R. Adams, L. Dissinger, D. Zech, W. Eggers.

PHI DELTA SIGMA provides entertainment

Celebrating their twenty-fifth anniversary this year, P. D. S. boys were inspired to work hard at making their fraternity an undeniable success. This season began with hayrides and canteens, including a formal banquet in honor of the new pledge class. Every month brought more plans for the parties and dances, with the traditional outing bringing the season to a close.

P. D. S. members: W. Eggers, J. Robrason, D. Hay, J. Franke, J. Sansone, J. Taylor, V. Geisler, R. Adams, B. Barnes, D. Zech, J. Miller, E. Deihl, L. Dissinger.

Enjoying an evening of cards and conversation are P. D. S. underclass members: G. Burgen, B. Barnes, V. Geisler, J. Franke, J. Taylor, and E. Deihl.

T. A. P. Members: Glenn, Horton, Moellenkamp, Morgan, Temple, Vendeland, Burden, Price, Ramsey, Claypoole, England, Rupprecht, Mason, Gerhart, Miller, Bicher, Rice, Abel, Wise, Van Buskirk, Henthorn, Poore, Hensley, Taub.

T. A. P. Seniors: Gerhart, Hensley, Moellenkamp, Poore, Taub, Glenn, Mason, Claypoole, Ramsey, Miller, Price, Henthorne, Abel.

THETA ALPHA PI teaches fellowship

The girls of T. A. P. had another year of fun and excitement. Fall was filled with the annual rush party, a hayride, and a slumber party. The Wish Bone Whirl was November's main event and an old clothes party was held in January. Spring brought the May Banquet, the installation picnic, and various charitable works. During the entire school year the T. A. P. members attended the various sports activities as a group. These activities bound the T. A. P. girls together through the girls' participation in them.

Juniors and sophomores: J. Miller, D. Burden, C. Wise, B. Lundy, S. Van Buskirk, M. Rupprecht, M. Bicher, M. Temple, K. England, C. Horton, R. Rice, J. Morgan.

The Tri Chi officers: J. Lindsey, D. Carmichael, D. Schermerhorn, J. Wichman.

CHI CHI CHI provides opportunities

This was a successful year for Tri Chi because of the many activities that the fraternity sponsored. Since Tri Chi was newly organized in 1958, the members are doing their best to meet the standards set by the school for a successful organization. Their activities this year were: a spring dance, two rummage sales, two paper drives, and three hayrides. With the sponsoring of food baskets on both Thanksgiving and Christmas, and the building up of a scholarship fund, the members have found pleasure in helping others less fortunate than they.

Tri Chi members: B. Russell, T. Emig, D. Westrich, J. Wichman, B. Schmidt, J. Moon, J. Zimmer, D. Schermerhorn, C. Underwood, L. Doan, D. Carmichael, J. Lindsey, G. Murphy, N. Sillman, L. Collins.

Spending spare time with Larry Collins' old car are B. Russell, G. Murphy, J. Moon, D. Carmichael, J. Lindsey, D. Schermerhorn, L. Doan, C. Underwood, D. Westrich, J. Zimmer, N. Sillman, L. Collins, J. Wichman, T. Emig, and B. Schmidt.

Enjoying a picnic on a fall afternoon are Tau Simga Chi juniors: D. Vorherr, R. Daugherty, J. Winters, J. Kellond, D. Hutchinson, N. Jones, N. Orlemann, B. Piatt, R. Huntley, N. Collins, B. Christe, and J. DeWeese.

Tau Sigma Chi seniors are C. Bertsche, L. Seyferth, M. Theilman, S. Backus, G. Lehnhoff, S. Craycraft, B. Ziegler, B. Fosco.

TAU SIGMA CHI strives for higher ideals

The Tausia Christmas Formal created an atmosphere of mixed emotions. Sophomores at their first formal were excited; Juniors seeing their completed projects were filled with pride, and Seniors coming to the end of the year were a little sad.

All the girls felt the closeness and harmony of sisterhood as they considered a new theme for the rush party. A beatnik party, dances, outings, and hayrides were a few of Tausia's group activities. The girls made many loyal friends through out the year. Yes, for Tausia sorority this was truly a year to remember.

Sophomores enjoying breakfast B. Rose, W. Morgan, C. Whiting, G. Orlemann, L. Wilson, L. Kinker, J. Bunger, M. Seyferth, M. Horton, D. Seigler, K. Peet, S. Fischer, K. Vollmer, G. Schroth, J. Malone, L. Calkins.

T.O. Sophomores and Juniors: FIRST ROW: Niemes, Kugler, Rothenbush, Patton, Hartman, Norton. BACK ROW: Lantry, Dinnie, Wright, Schott, Thie, Kay, Patton, Schiff, Hardy, Bibent, Swartz, and Barth.

T.O. Officers

TRIGINTA OPTIMI means thirty of the best

The members of Tringinta Optimi enjoyed another eventful year. Their fun began with a hayride in September, which was followed by their open dance-November Nocturne, the New Year's Eve Party, and the traditional old clothes party in April.

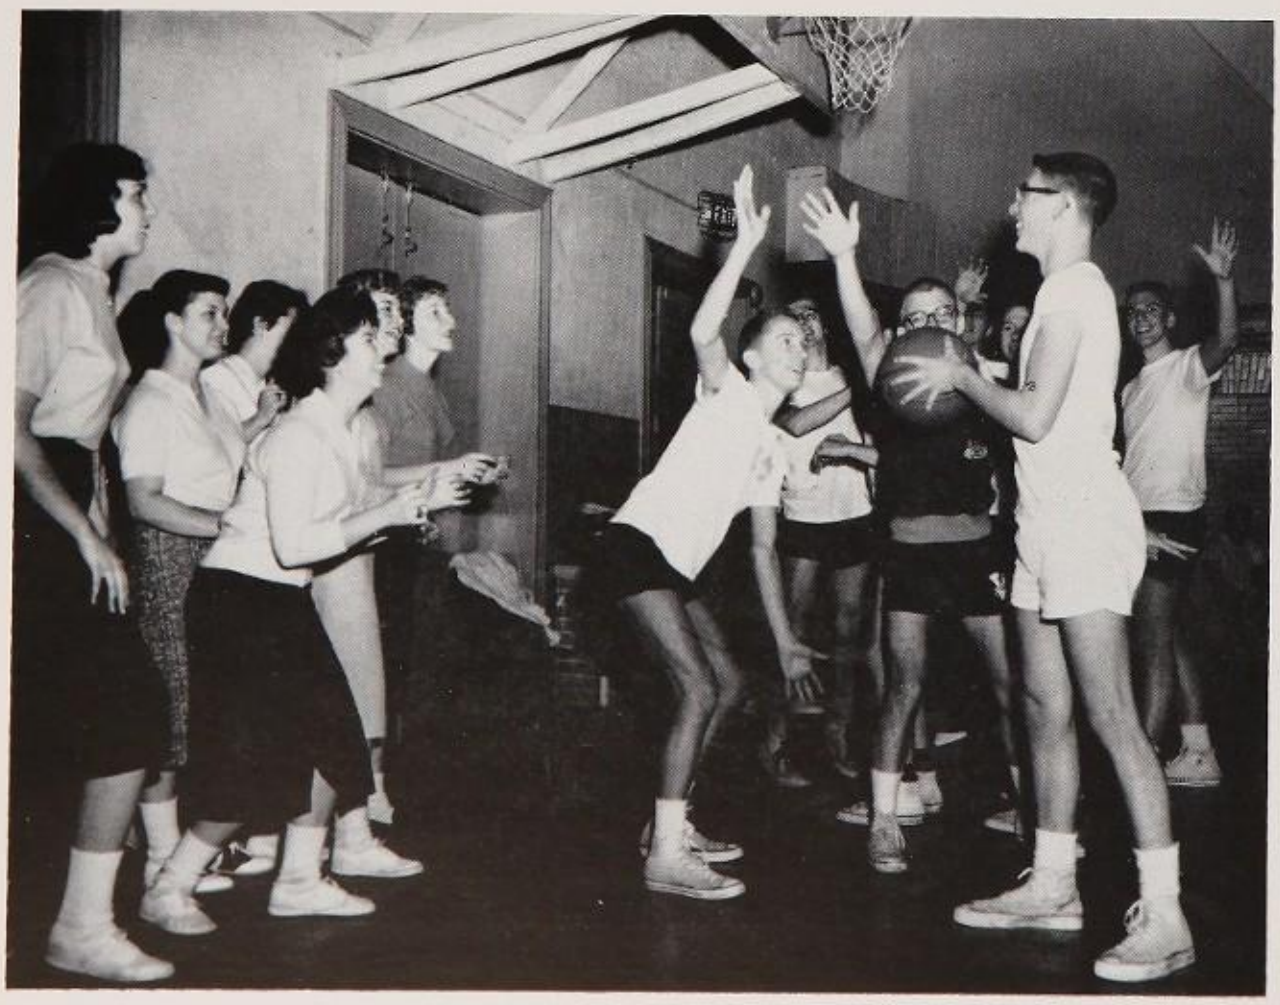
The T.O. boys proved to be very outstanding in the fields of leadership and athletics, as Tom Maddux claimed the title of Senior Class President, Bob Yearout, Intrafratority President, Stuart Schott, Junior Class President, several of the boys in Student Council, and many members represented in all varsity sports.

This year the members of the Western Hills Chapter of Hi-Y solemnly held the formal initiation at the Westwood First Presbyterian Church.

Hi-Y
Y-Teens

Mr. Nohr and Miss Murphy, sponsors of Hi-Y and Y-Teens, have aided these clubs in achieving their main purpose — to build and strengthen the characters of their members. The clubs carried out this purpose by having many charitable and social functions. Included in the charitable work were decorating and filling of Thanksgiving baskets for the unfortunate and caroling at the hospitals and homes for the aged at Christmas. The social activities included hayrides, parties, and dances, making a well balanced year.

Y-Teens find it's fun to help others. Preparing their Thanksgiving baskets are P. Ebel, J. Dier, J. Byers, L. Eckert, and G. Gibons.



"Block that shot! Don't let Phil make the basket." These are familiar cries coming from the Hi-Y basketball game at the Westwood Gymnasium. Y-Teens are excited and interested spectators.

Business Club

The Western Hills Business Club has a dual purpose—to develop students educationally and socially. As an educational project this year, the club arranged for a tour through the University of Cincinnati Business Administration Department. To meet the expenses of their social events, Business Club members sold wrapping paper at Christmas time. Among the social activities which everyone enjoyed were the Bumble Bee Bop, a Christmas party, and a picnic at Maple Ridge Lodge to close the year.

Kathy plays the piano at Maple Ridge Lodge for the other Business Club officers as they relax after dancing at the Bumble Bee Bop.

Future Teachers Club

To interest young people in teaching as a career and to promote understanding of the rewards and problems of teaching are the aims of Future Teachers Club of America. By means of speakers and movies, the prospective teachers learn of the various levels and special fields of teaching. The group also meets with clubs from other schools to exchange ideas and information. Through their many activities, the members of the Future Teachers Club at Western Hills acquaint themselves with the varied phases of their future vocations.

F. T. A. officers Carolyn Clay, Beryl Wulfekamp, Sheila Somers, and Nancy Cochran gain experience by helping with teachers' duties.

Judy Ringshauser, Diane Ekardt, Geri Wheaton, and Marcia Smith practice their future vocations by doing volunteer work at hospitals.

Health Careers Club

Under the sponsorship of Mrs. Lilly, the Health Careers Club has become the largest of the career clubs at Western Hills. The club promoted volunteer work of its members at various hospitals in the city. Other activities this year included movies concerning future vocations in health and lectures by previous members who have gone into nursing and health. This year a tour through the General Electric medical center was added to inform the members of industrial nursing. Through these activities, Health Careers Club achieved its goal of interesting acquainting young people with professions concerned with health.

The highlight of this year's Latin Club Banquet was the presentation of officers with their crowns. The officers are Donna Hartig, Hedy Fischbach, Leslie Minor, Ann Ackerman, Jan Lineback, Claire Kelch, Julie and Judie Baker, and Barbara Bischoff.

Language clubs open doorways for appreciation

An informative trip to the classical library at the University of Cincinnati—an exciting lecture on ancient Greece by an exchange student—a blood curdling movie of "Attila"—a sumptuous Roman banquet—a rollicking picnic—these were the major activities of the Latin Club this year. Under the guidance of Miss Bolan and the leadership of Janet Lineback, the Latin Club achieved its main objectives—to acquaint its members with ancient Roman customs and to create interest in and enjoyment of the Latin language.

Under the careful supervision of Mr. Shackelford the German Club has experienced another successful year, highlighted by many entertaining social events. President Arden Wander planned many of their activities including a Christmas party, a spring picnic, and a dinner at the well-known German restaurant, Mecklenberg Gardens. Experiences such as these will linger long in the memories of German Club members as they look back on a busy and fun-filled year.

One two cha cha cha! Learning to dance the Cha Cha at one of the Spanish Club meetings this year proved to be fun. Sponsored by Miss O'Hara and Miss Murphy, Spanish Club had many good times. Members enjoyed a Christmas where a pinata filled with candy was broken in traditional Spanish style and carols were sung in Spanish. At ensuing meetings members played Spanish scrabble, visited the Spanish Inn for a genuine Spanish meal, and then closed the year with a delightful picnic in the spring.

Getting students more interested in the language and customs of France is the main goal of French Club. Through movies and discussions at their meetings the members of the club learn more about the customs of France and gain more enjoyment from their school study of French. Other activities such as translating and planning French menus, practicing conversation, and ordering and enjoying a meal at a French restaurant create a greater interest in this language and reveal the practical value of its study.

Composing and publishing the German Club newspaper are officers A. Wander, J. Brannon, J. Mason, J. Klems, and J. Dietrich.

Eileen Roche and Mary Howell indulge in old Spanish customs — drinking mate, a Spanish tea, and reading a popular newspaper.

of other cultures.

Hedy Fischbach and Lois Schott show the French Club a few slides taken by the Girl Scout Troop 118 while they visited France last summer.

Where the mind is without fear and the head is held high;
Where knowledge is free;
Where the world has not been broken up into fragments
by narrow domestic walls;
Where words come out from the depths of truth;
Where tireless striving stretches its arms toward perfection;
Where the clear stream of reason has not lost its way into the dreary desert sand of dead habit;
Where the mind is led forward by Thee into an ever-widening thought and action;
Into that heaven of freedom, my Father, let my country awake.

— Rabindranath Tagore

We have the challenge—we have it in mathematics and in sociology, in football and in tennis, in orchestra and in organizations. We have it in life. We look to the seagulls, rising, flying upward, unrestrained and free, as symbolic ideals of the way we would meet the challenge; for we would meet it as individuals, in unrestrained motion, in complete harmony with ourselves and the world.

Congratulations to the Class of '60 from the DADS' CLUB

WESTERN HILLS PRESS

In the pressroom of the WESTERN HILLS PRINTING COMPANY, there are many modern machines designed to make printing faster and more accurate than ever before. That is why it is wise for anyone to take his printing business to the WESTERN HILLS PRINTING CO. Here, Peggy Dickman and Ron Mauer are being shown a linotype machine which is instrumental in the newspaper industry. The "Western Hills Breeze," our own school paper, is but one example of the fine work done by the WESTERN HILLS PRINTING CO., publishers of the "Western Hills Press" and the "Price Hill News," your Western Hills home newspapers.

LAST WILL AND TESTAMENT

I, Sidney Stonestreet *

of Western Hills High School, of the City of Cincinnati, Hamilton County, Ohio, being of sound and disposing mind (?), body (?), and memory (?), and under no restraint and desiring to make such disposition of my worldly estate as to me seems best, do hereby make, execute, and declare this to be my Last Will and Testament, hereby revoking and annulling any and all other Wills whatsoever by me here ofore made.

Item I—I desire that my executor, hereinafter named, shall pay out of my estate, and as soon as it is practicable after my death, all just debts owing by me.

Item II—I hereby give and bequeath nothing; believing that you can take it with you and preferring to keep all in the possession of myself and the class of 1960.

Item III—I hereby nominate and appoint Mr. Arthur J. Havlovic executor of my Last Will and Testament.

In testimony whereof I have here unto set my hand this ninth day of June in the year of our Lord, one thousand, nine hundred, and sixty.

Signed, published, and declared by the said Sidney Stonestreet as and for his Last Will and Testament, in the presence of us who in his presence and in the presence of each other, at his request have here unto subscribed our names as witnesses.

Richard Hobson

W. B. Conger

* Sidney Stonestreet is a fictitious character who has been with the class of 1960 in spirit for the past four years.

Our Challenge

For a quarter of a century the old fashioned lad from Indianapolis has been wheeling to Western Hills High School. During these 25 years he has taught approximately 500 boys and girls on the annual staffs the techniques of design, layout, copy continuity and illustrative photography. To him these Golden Years are memorable because the Western Hills Annual always has been judged near perfect and 500 boys and girls have had outstanding creative experiences.

MEMO

TO: Whom it may concern

FROM: 1960 Annual Staff

SUBJECT: Grateful acknowledgement for service beyond the call of duty:

Photography

To Russel Benson for the dedicated "sweat" put into pictures, layouts, and ideas, and to Duncan Scheidt for cheerful assistance
To Mr. Busch for framing the Senior class
To Mr. Alyward for the extraordinary school spirit shown by his unfailing attendance at sport and social activities
To Mr. Favret for "sure-to-please-the-customer" business section photos
To Indiana School Pictures for 2300 handsome mug shots
To Bill Bradshaw for his starry contribution to page one

Engraving

To the Circle Engraving Company for keeping us from going around in circles

Printing

To the Hurley Company for careful attention to detail, expert printing, and stoic patience

Cover

To the Kingsport Press and Tom McConnell for producing a simple cover from our complicated instructions

Contributing Writers

To Chaucer, Darwin, Emerson, Gibrin, Shakespeare, and Tagore for sparkling captions

Advisers

To Miss Weber for the necessary "push" and inspired advice given to uninspired and inexperienced staff members
To Mrs. Goodfellow for attractive layouts and good conversation
To Mr. Love for efficient monetary and carnival booth management
To Mr. Havlovic, the administration, and the teachers for their patience with our immature efforts
